Bombshell B.C. Election Called on Power Question

FARRIS GIVEN REMAND ON PERJURY CHARGE

TORONTO (CP) — Ralph K. Farris, president of the Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company, was remanded in magistrate's court today until Sept. 9 on three charges of perjury.

Farris, charged following year-long investigations by the Ontario Securities Commission, said he flew here from Vancouver at his own expense to face the charges.

He was in custody for only 20 minutes before he was released on $10,000 cash bail.

The perjury charges related to evidence Farris gave to inquiries in 1958 and 1962 concerning distribution of the company's shares to elected officials before they were released on the open market.

Jailed Douk Dies of Hunger

AGASSIZ, B.C. (CP) — Sons of Doukhobor prison here, said Freedom Doukhobors, camped outside Mountain Prison here, today shouted "murderers" and "butchers" when they learned that a jailed member of their sect had died during a hunger strike.

The Doukhobors first learned by radio of the death of Paul E. Podmoroff, 23, who had been serving a seven-year term for arson.

Two other Sons of Freedom, their names withheld, were reported in the same hospital at nearby Chilliwack where Podmoroff died.

All Parties In High Gear For Campaign

Although even the Social Credit organizations were caught flat-footed by the election shocker, most parties today were in high campaign gear.

All the local MLAs are planning to run again, though some of them were completely in the dark about Premier Bennett's plans.

One definite new prospect in Saanich is John Windsor, the blind author who ran for the New Democratic Party in the federal election.

He said today he is willing to stand if nominated, and a prominent local NDP official promised to nominate him.

The man he'll try to beat, Social Credit member John Tisdale, was bowled over by the news.

"Is there a provincial election being called? Where?" he asked.

Told it was B.C., he scoffed "you're kidding."

UNDERSTANDS NOW

Reflecting a moment, he added, "So that's what Premier Bennett meant the other day when he said, 'John, are you ready for the fray?'"

Socialist J. Donald Smith, Waldo Skillings and Works Minister W. N. Chant are all expected to run again in Victoria.

Tipped as a probable Liberal candidate to oppose them is former alderman Mike Griffin. Neither the NDP nor the Conservatives have lined up a slate here yet.

Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane will seek re-election, but there was no word from Reeve George Murdoch on whether he will try again for Social Credit.

Across the province, the NDP boasts 42 of 52 candidates "earmarked."

"This didn't catch us by surprise," said party secretary Ernest Hall.

PLANNING STRATEGY

Party leader Robert Strachan was in Vancouver today for campaign strategy meetings. Former Vancouver Burrard MP Tom Berger is chairman of the provincial campaign committee, and the first NDP election pamphlet is already printed.

Mr. Hall said campaign offices opened in Salmon Arm complete with posters first thing this morning.

The 16 NDP members of the last legislature will all run again.

The Liberals have no candidates nominated, but all five previous MLAs will run again.

The Conservatives have two candidates nominated, three conventions planned within a week.

Bennett Surprises Everyone

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier W. A. C. Bennett has electrified British Columbia politics by calling a general election Sept. 30.

The issue will be public power development.

The bombshell burst at 4:30 p.m. Thursday. Public and politicians alike had completely relaxed their guard, assuming Social Credit would go its normal four-year term.

Early-year election speculation had died away when Mr. Bennett repeatedly stated there would be no election this year.

The decision was sudden. The reasons offered by the premier were general only.

But the still-unsettled B.C. Electric case, and the fate of the Columbia and Peace River power development are the key ones.

In his election-calling press conference, hurriedly summoned at 4:30 Thursday, the premier said his decision was forced by these factors:

He wants a mandate for his two-river public power policy.

He fears Confederation is in danger;

He has a new seven-year plan for B.C. development.

Minimum Time for Campaign

The election has been called within 39 days, almost the shortest possible time—the statutory limit is 38 days. Partly because of this there will be no enumeration of voters.

The vote will be barely three years after Social Credit's 1960 victory, a year ahead of the traditional four-year term favored by governments in Canada.

Social Credit goes into the campaign with 31 of the 52 seats in the legislature. The New Democratic Party, as official Opposition, had 16; the Liberals five.

The Conservatives, under new leader Davie Fulton, will try a big comeback after a decade.

Mr. Bennett said Social Credit's campaign slogan will be "Forward to a Greater British Columbia."

The NDP has countered with the banner "The Chance of Your Life"—the chance being to unseat the Socialists.

Both Teams Expect Victory

Both party leaders predict victory. Mr. Bennett claiming an increased majority.

Liberal spokesman Alan Macfarlane of Oak Bay said his party could form a government, predicting "substantial gains."

Mr. Fulton, claiming a list of impressive potential candidates, said "It's our chance to get Bennett out."

The five-week campaign is expected to be fierce and tough.

Although the date of the vote came as a shock to everyone, preliminary volleys are already being exchanged.

Mr. Bennett pulled a curtain-raiser just Tuesday when he announced abolition of all tolls by next April 1.

He said Thursday the election had not been discussed by the cabinet until a secret meeting late Wednesday. Dissolution of the 25th legislature after four sessions was proclaimed by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes Thursday.

Nomination day will be Sept. 16, and few candidates are already chosen.

Mr. Strachan said he was ready for the election, but the Liberals were caught with leader Ray Perrault on a honeymoon in Hawaii.

The premier, who said he started campaigning the moment he announced the date, gave a broad outline of the election policy Thursday at the press conference.

Details will be spelled out in a manifesto now in preparation, he said.

It will contain new Social policy announcements on aid to education and medicine.

Mr. Bennett said the manifesto will contain a "seven year plan" for B.C. development to 1970.

"Keystone of the manifesto will be the Bennett government's two-river program of hydro-electric power development."

COLUMBIA PACT TALKS GO ON AS SCHEDULED

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Columbia River development talks with the U.S. will proceed as scheduled despite B.C. Premier Bennett's calling of a snap provincial election, federal officials said today.

Spokesmen here said it was not anticipated that the planned discussions would reach finality "by any means" before Sept. 30, the date set for the election.

Should the Bennett government of B.C. meet defeat in the election, authorities here suggested, a new review of the whole Columbia scheme likely would be necessary to see what different Columbia policies might be required by the new party in power.

DOUBT NEED FOR ELECTION

Opposition Set For Fall Battle

Opposition party leaders today questioned the necessity for a fall provincial election, but all declared themselves ready for the fray.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan of the New Democratic Party welcomed the vote as a real opportunity to upset Social Credit.

The real issue of the election, he declared, is integrity of government.

RIGHTS JEOPARDIZED

Mr. Strachan noted the premier said one of the election issues is the rights of the province in confederation.

"Then the public must recognize that Social Credit, in their handling of the B.C. Electric takeover, have jeopardized provincial rights and confederation more than any government in the history of Canada."

Mr. Perrault said he had no direct comment to make at this time. But he endorsed the statement issued by Mr. Macfarlane on his behalf.

Mr. Macfarlane said he was, like many British Columbians, shocked at the election call.

"I am asking the same question as many others—is a provincial election necessary at this time?"

The Socialists have only spent three of the five years they could have in power, and have a substantial House majority, he said.

"The people of the province have been put to the expense of five elections in seven years—four federal, one provincial. They should not be put to the expense and inconvenience of

Escape Shaft Reaches Miners

SHEPPTON, Pa. (UPI) — Drillers today completed a 12-inch escape shaft into the tiny compartment in which two miners have been entombed 11 days.

The steel bit broke through at 3:31 p.m. (12:31 PDT). "It's through," David Fellin, 58, shouted to the men at the surface.

The word was passed quickly to Fellin's wife, Anna, who kept a lonely vigil at the mine site.

It will take up to 30 more hours, however, to widen the shaft to 18 inches to permit Fellin and Henry Throne, 26, both trapped since Aug. 13, to be brought to the surface in a specially-designed rescue capsule.

At 3:28 p.m. Gordon Smith, state deputy secretary of mines, ordered the slowly-turning drill stopped.

GREAT TRAIN ROBBERY

Seventh Suspect Charged

LONDON (Reuters) — A seventh suspect was charged in court today with "being concerned" in Britain's big train robbery as police tightened a net on remaining gang members involved in the world-record train theft.

A man believed involved in the Aug. 8 robbery of a Glasgow-London mail train was being taken by detectives from Leicester, central England, to Aylesbury, nerve-centre of the manhunt.

Scotland Yard said it wanted to interview a 28-year-old silver-smith known as The Weasel in connection with the robbery.

It named the man as Roy Wilson.

Wilson "strenuously denied" through his lawyer any connection with the robbery.

He smiled as Detective Chief Superintendent Thomas Butler of Scotland Yard quoted him as saying when charged:

"I don't see how you can make it stick without the poppy (underworld slang for money) and you won't find that."

Wilson was arrested in a suburban house Thursday night and charged with robbing Frank Dewhurst, chief postman aboard the plundered mail train.

More than £2,600,000 ($7,800,000) in British currency—mostly worn banknotes—was taken from the Glasgow-London mail train. About one-tenth of the money has been recovered.

Wilson was picked up after Scotland Yard gave pictures of him and two other men to the press. The other men, Bruce Reynolds, 41, a car and antique dealer, and James White, 43, a cafe owner, had their photographs and descriptions splashed across the front page of almost all London papers today.

No sooner were the pictures issued, than scores of callers flooded Scotland Yard's switchboard, hoping for a cut of the record ($780,000) reward.

CHARGED MONEY FOUND

Twelve teams of detectives in London alone were ordered to swoop on the homes of men known as members of the gang. Other raids yielded a pile of charred banknotes from a back-yard on fire at a south London house.

White and his wife Sherree left their home 10 days ago and later spent some days in a trailer home in which police found £30,000 of the loot.

Already in the dragnet is a tiny white poodle. It was found outside a public house in Essex, whimpering and bruised as though it had been thrown from a passing car. White and his wife had a poodle with them at the trailer camp.

Mary Kashin Manson, 42, appeared in Lindsay court Thursday and charged with receiving £835 of the stolen money Aug. 9—the day after the gang stripped the mail train of 2½ tons of negotiable banknotes.

LISTING UP TO VOTER

It's up to the voters to make sure they can cast ballots in the Sept. 30 election.

Deadline to get on the voters' list is Aug. 31.

There will be no door-to-door enumeration this time. Each electoral district will have a registration centre—in Victoria it is at 910 Gordon Street, and covers the Saanich, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Victoria ridings.

Would-be voters or people who want to check if they are already on the list should contact that office.

To be eligible you must:
Be 19 years old; a Canadian citizen or British subject; resident of Canada for 12 months, resident of B.C. for six months.

The 1960 election list, so far revised only in the case of byelections or known deaths, contained 874,267 names.

NOBODY BUT NOBODY fools Times cartoonist Bob Bierman, whose trusty crystal ball led him to anticipate Premier Bennett's surprise election call. While politicians and newsmen were caught yawning, Bob was drawing cartoon showing

Bennett erasing toll bridge sign, replacing it with "vote here". Cartoon was drawn more than 24 hours before announcement appeared in Thursday's Times. Bierman, however, refuses to guarantee he'll do it every time.

Election Call: Prime Blunder Or Master Act

By FRANK RUTTER

Has W.A.C. pulled a boner that will cost him his job—or is he cashing in on a good thing while it lasts? Premier Bennett has sailed into an election with the province's two biggest problems unresolved: the B.C. Electric case and the Columbia River Treaty.

On these two issues his government could stand or fall.

The immediate question, then, is: Why was the election called before they were settled?

Is it because there is a danger of political failure in both? Although the premier advanced a number of quite different reasons for his September election, all of them in generalities, there is more than lurking suspicion that these two are the true nub of his decision.

There are several other very important factors, which he also did not mention, that must have been in his consideration.

They include: a prosperous boom which has given the government millions of dollars to throw out on potential vote-getting developments; the possibility that the opposition parties are caught dozing and short of funds; the indicator supplied by the success, for the government, in the July 15 Columbia byelection.

Decision Will Work Both Ways

The offer may not have been rejected yet, but if Mr. Bennett now feels it will be, he can make an big issue of it during the election campaign.

If it is later accepted, then he will have a last-minute plum to pull out of the pie.

Mr. Bennett also declared that he wants a mandate from the voters to go ahead with his plan for the Columbia.

He obviously wants a strong bargaining tool to convince the Americans to meet his price for the downstream benefits.

The fact that Mr. Bennett now says there will be no final Columbia negotiations until after the election plus the apparent failure to settle the B.C. Electric case, might also indicate a premonition on the premier's part that many more difficulties lie ahead.

In that case, he may have reasoned it best to get an election out of the way before the danger of failure.

This would also enable him to make the fullest political use of his financial prosperity. He has enough money to

The premier avoided questions about B.C. Electric at his election-calling press conference on Thursday.

And yet just the day before he said that negotiations with B.C. Power Corp. on a new price for the company were at "a very interesting stage."

In fact there is good reason that he believed that he was about to reach a settlement.

A top secret offer was made to the corporation at the beginning of the week.

The government, it is reported, was willing to pay about $25,000,000 more than the original takeover price.

This would comprise the extra $20,000,000 recommended by Chief Justice Sherwood Lett in his judgment against the government, plus interest for the two years of "illegal" public ownership.

lift all tolls, to promise extra cash for universities and schools, highways, hospitals, and even a hint about a medicare policy.

The Social Credit victory in Columbia was, the premier admitted Thursday, a factor.

And the byelection result gave him further warning that the longer he delayed a general election the more chance for Davie Fulton to gain momentum in what could be a Conservative revival.

Mr. Fulton hailed his Columbia candidate's second-place finish as the start of a new trend.

Calling the election this year might head it off.

So the premier is gambling his physical assets and provincial prosperity against possible liabilities on the Columbia and B.C. Electric and the strength of the opposition parties.

If everything goes right for him, he could sail home as he predicts, with more seats.

If he has underestimated his foe, the election could backfire.

BATTLE IN KAMLOOPS ELECTION HIGHLIGHT

The battle of the election will be at Kamloops. It will be a contest of two of the biggest personalities in B.C. politics — Conservative leader Davie Fulton and Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi.

Mr. Gagliardi has held the seat since 1952. Mr. Fulton was the federal member for Kamloops from 1945 until his resignation this year to enter provincial politics.

When Kamloops voted provincially it was heavy for Gagliardi. In the last election, he polled 4,777 votes, almost half the total cast, and nearly 2,000 ahead of his nearest rival, the New Democratic Party candidate.

The federal riding, considerably larger than the B.C. constituency, was equally strong for Fulton.

In 1962, his last election, he got 11,312 votes, nearly 6,000 ahead of the Liberal runner-up.

How will the voters choose between local pastor Gagliardi and local lawyer Fulton?

... OPPOSITION

"He said the most important issue—settlement of the B.C. Electric case is unsolved. An election would not settle it. The premier, he said cannot ask for a mandate on his power policy until he puts all the facts before the public.

"The public interest would have been better served if we had gone on with the business of the province without the interruption of an election."

Mr. Fulton said the election

Shooting Spree

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP)—Three police officers were shot and wounded before a fourth smashed through two doors and overpowered a former mental patient after a wild shooting spree Thursday.

Albert R. Rishor, 59, was jailed without charge.

Three men were taken to a hospital. They were Rishor's neighbor, Beaulieu Bruce, 34, who was shot in a leg; Acting Police Sgt. Lyle Browning, 44, shot in a hip, and Officer James Owens, 30, hit in the right hand.

B.C. Native New Red Cross Chief

TORONTO (CP)—Maj. Gen. Arthur E. Winch has been appointed national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross Society, it was announced Thursday.

He succeeds Dr. W. S. Stanbury, who died in November, 1962, while attending a conference in Puerto Rico. Gen. Winch, a native of Hazelton, B.C., takes over his new post Oct. 15, following his retirement after 31 years in the army.

IT WAS A SHORT VACATION for chief electoral officer Fred Hurley who rushed back to his office gasping. (Ryan Bros. photo.)

HIS VACATION WAS CUT SHORT

The key man in the provincial election didn't know a thing about it when he sped through the Okanagan on a holiday Thursday.

Fred Hurley, as B.C.'s chief electoral officer the man who organizes the voting, was given no advance warning, nor was he officially notified when Premier Bennett announced the Sept. 30 date.

He started a month's holiday three days ago and heard the news on his car radio at Peachland late Thursday.

He left the car with his wife and sat up all night on a bus to Vancouver.

Mr. Hurley, travel-stained and weary, arrived in his office at 9:30 today.

RIGHT TO WORK

He immediately sat down to tackle all the mechanical arrangements that have to be made to prepare for the election — appointing returning officers, arranging polls, printing ballots, drawing up voters' lists.

It's the 13th election in which Mr. Hurley has participated—more than any politician campaigning today.

He began his career in the provincial electoral office as an office boy in 1919.

Victory for Socred Government Will Give Bennett New Record

Apart from the political aspirations for the Social Credit party, Premier Bennett's call for a general election has a personal side.

If he wins the contest he will be assured of holding the premiership of B.C. for the longest period of anyone in the province's history.

Legally Mr. Bennett could have continued his present term until mid 1965, which would enable him to surpass the 13-year record established shortly after the turn of the century by Sir Richard McBride.

But Canadian experience is that a government which goes the full five-year term takes a grave risk of defeat, since the public gets the idea it is hanging on to office merely

Social Credit Out In Front With 31 Seats

Social Credit went into the new election campaign today with a hold on 31 of the 52 seats in the provincial legislature.

In the last election, Sept. 12, 1960, the Socreds won 32, New Democrats 16, Liberals four.

In subsequent byelections the government lost one seat in Vancouver-Point Grey to the Liberals.

Social Credit held 38.8 per cent of the popular vote, the NDP 32.6 per cent, Liberals 20.9 and Conservatives 6.7 per cent.

The Socreds would have to lose six seats to be voted out of majority rule.

In 1960 Socreds won three ridings by less than 60 votes, the three closest contests in the election.

In Comox, Dan Campbell's lead was only 28; in Yale, and in Nanaimo, Recreation Irvine Corbett won by 29 Minister Earle Westwood was just in by 51 votes.

In seven other close contests, won by less than 365 votes, Socreds won four—Skeena, Salmon Arm, Prince Rupert and Lillooet—and lost three, Fernie, Grand Forks and Atlin.

Social Credit's strongest areas have been the North and Interior. The NDP gets most of its strength in the Greater Vancouver area.

This will be the fifth election in 11 years for B.C. Social Credit won the previous four.

There have been three byelections since 1960.

At Revelstoke, the NDP retained its seat in September, 1962; at Point Grey the government suffered a tremendous defeat at the hands of Liberal Pat McGeer last December, and in Columbia, July 15 this year.

Social Credit held its former seat.

THOMPSON HAS LITTLE TO SAY

New Rift in Socred Ranks

By The Canadian Press
A new rift appears to be developing between Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson and Quebec Social Crediters.

In Ottawa, Jean-Baptiste Cote of Granby, Que., chief organizer for the Quebec wing of the party, issued a press statement saying that several Quebec party groups want Mr. Thompson to step down as national leader.

And in Rouyn, Que., Real Caouette, deputy leader of the party, accused Mr. Thompson of contradicting himself when he criticized six Quebec Social Credit MPs for declaring themselves in support of the Liberal minority government after the April 8 election. The six MPs later repudiated their declaration in contrast to the vote of confidence which I received at the national council meeting of the party here last month."

'FORGET FEAR, ANXIETY, SUSPICION'

TORONTO (CP)—Anglicans have been urged to forget their past "fear, anxiety and suspicion" of the Roman Catholic Church in favor of the new spirit of Christian unity.

"Reunion may be very far away," said Very Rev. C. H. W. de Soysa, archdeacon of Colombo, Ceylon, "but a real breakthrough in relations between the Roman Catholic Church and the rest of us has occurred."

Archdeacon de Soysa was one of two speakers to stress the prospects of closer relations between the churches Thursday, as the 11-day Anglican Congress neared its close.

Still further evidence of the new feeling between the churches is today's "courtesy call" by James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, and Most Rev. Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury. After a public encounter in the lobby of the hotel where the Anglicans have met, the two church leaders retire to a private suite to discuss "matters of mutual concern."

Today's sessions are the last formal meetings of the Congress. Delegates will hear ideas for action from 37 study groups set up at the beginning of the conference and approve a "message" summing up the spirit of the Congress.

Most Rev. Joost de Blank, Archbishop of Cape Town, South Africa, will speak at the closing religious service late today at St. James Cathedral.

Archdeacon de Soysa, one of the Anglican observers at last year's Vatican council, said that Catholic theologians are "thinking very hard" about the equality of all Christians through the common factor of baptism.

And delegates applauded when he said: "I have hope the Roman Catholic Church may apply for membership in the World Council of Churches. When that happens, a very great thing will have been done."

"... Fear, anxiety and suspicion, no matter how well founded in the past, must be put aside and we must go ahead in faith," he concluded.

Terrorists Strike At Army Buildings

TRADE UNIONS IN BRITAIN CALL OFF WILDCAT STRIKES

LONDON (Reuters)—Building trade unions agreed today to end their wildcat strikes that have paralyzed selected projects in England and Wales for the last week.

After a meeting with employers, a union spokesman said they agreed to set up a committee to consider ways of settling disputed questions over pay and working conditions.

About 500 building projects—including the reconstruction of the official residence of the Prime Minister at 10 Downing Street—have been halted by the strike of between 150,000 and 200,000 workers.

Other projects have been slowed down by bans on overtime work and other union tactics.

SPECIAL SESSION

Israel, Syria Spar at UN

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Israel and Syria square off in the UN Security Council today, each accusing the other of aggression.

The special council session had been set for Monday but was advanced at the insistence of Israeli Ambassador Michael Comay. He claimed Syrian guns shelled two Israeli settlements near the Syrian border Wednesday night.

In preliminary talks with council members, Comay said the 11-nation group's action would show whether Israel could get satisfaction from the council, where the Soviet Union has exercised its veto occasionally on behalf of the Arabs.

The Israeli parliament said Wednesday night that Israel would exercise its right of self defense unless the council halted the alleged Syrian aggression.

The Arab world, split on many inter-Arab issues, rallied to support Syria.

Some delegates predicted Israel would encounter a tough time in the council because she has boycotted the Israeli-Syrian mixed armistice commission since 1951. The council called on both nations in April, 1962, to take "all steps necessary for re-activating the mixed armistice commission."

While Syria has taken complaints about incidents in the demilitarized zone before the commission, Israel has argued that only the commission chairman—a UN-man—is authorized to handle such complaints.

Both Israel's and Syria's current complaints allege military aggression inside the demilitarized zone north of the Sea of Galilee. The zone is forbidden ground to all military forces under the 1949 armistice agreement between Israel and Syria, last of the Arab nations to stop fighting in the Palestine war.

MONTREAL (CP)—A side door of the big Craig Street armories in downtown Montreal was set on fire early today and police were told it was the work of Le Front de Liberation Quebecois. Damage was estimated at $300.

Police received a telephone call from a person who said in French: "I am a member of the FLQ. Watch the armories."

Seven minutes later, the side door of the armories was discovered to be on fire. Police found oil on the sidewalk.

Mr. Bennett Plays the Ace

A NUMBER OF UNCONNECTED British Columbia facts slipped into place with a click yesterday afternoon to form a canny political pattern. As Mr. Bennett called a snap election, his recent acts immediately assumed new meaning as the preliminary moves leading to an appeal to the voters.

There was, for instance, the removal of the province's roadblock in the path of Columbia power negotiations with Ottawa. This cleared the way for the current Ottawa-Washington talks on modification of the power treaty and the negotiations to open September 6 on the price of downstream benefits. They contain the possibility of pre-election good news.

There was the sudden abandonment by the government of its adamant stand against a review of the price paid for B.C. Electric. Now an air of sweet reasonableness on the part of Mr. Bennett and Mr. Bonner promises an early settlement of the fight with B.C. Power and a rapid sweeping under the carpet of the whole case and its unpleasant associations before September 30.

There was the sudden removal of tolls this week from the Deas Island tunnel and from the last bridge in British Columbia to carry such a charge. All the other bridge tolls were removed a large ago.

There was the year surplus in the last budget which places the revenue surplus account at $25 million—a development which has been ascribed to under-estimated revenues and under-expended appropriations, but nevertheless is offered as a demonstration of the province's prosperity under the Social Credit regime.

These and other weighty straws in the wind have been noted and labelled by observers. But Mr. Bennett's sudden announcement of a general election has nevertheless caught everyone by surprise. This surprise will be particularly felt in the camps of the opposition parties which have been given a bare forty days and forty nights to find their way through the wilderness of an election campaign.

Although the last vote was on September 12, 1960, and the government therefore has another two years before an election is necessary, Mr. Bennett has assessed his opportunity with intuitive skill. The "good" things, as mentioned, have been displayed on the counter; the "bad" things—the continent-wide condemnation of the manner in which he took over the B.C. Electric, the sticky business of the highway contract charges that brought on a legislative investigation, his failure as yet to find American customers at the price he must have for Columbia power—such things have largely faded from the public mind. The climate is clement.

Mr. Bennett will go to the people, he says, on the government's two-river program and its policy of public power. Since there is no easy way out of either now, this occasions no surprise. But above all, he says, he stands for "the federal system which has brought two great cultures together" and for full co-operation with the national government.

The election, says Mr. Bennett, is to give the people "the opportunity to endorse this policy in advance of the (federal-provincial) conference."

Support for Confederation should be a popular platform in a British Columbia provincial election, and a difficult one for Mr. Bennett's opponents to oppose. But there is still some confusion.

On August 6 in Halifax, Mr. Bennett said, according to a Canadian Press dispatch: "Confederation has never been in better shape." Yesterday, in announcing the election, he said that the scheduled federal-provincial conference "comes at a time when Confederation itself is at stake."

The premier says that because of this he wants a mandate to take to Ottawa with him. The voters have forty days to figure out why.

An Investment With Returns

MAYOR WILSON HAS CALLED on local business firms to contribute to the funds spent on encouraging tourists to come here. He rightly terms such contributions an investment.

Receipts from tourists this year are expected to amount to $60 million. The majority of the visitors who spend this money here come because they have been encouraged to do so through advertising. Without publication of the Island's attractions much of this trade would go elsewhere. It is therefore logical that the merchants and businessmen who stand to gain most from the tourist industry should help finance the appeal.

The city donates $50,000 annually to the tourist and information bureau since the community as a whole benefits from the tourist trade. But there has at times been reluctance on the part of some businessmen to pull their weight. That reluctance must be overcome.

The tourist industry—hotels and motels, recreation centres and retailers, all who cater to the visitors—must stand on its own feet. The stakes are too high and the competition elsewhere too vigorous to permit anything less than a wholehearted approach.

Young Maoris—New Social Problem?

A GENERATION AGO IT WAS common practice to cite New Zealand's dealings with the country's Maoris as the enlightened way to treat native peoples.

They are given equal citizenship rights with others in the nation and their school system appears to be similar to that followed of late years in British Columbia, where the provincial department opens school doors and often shares new accommodation with our Indians.

A problem, however, has arisen in New Zealand—and one which appears in some way related to unusual statistics. The rate of delinquency among young Maoris is high. While the natives form about six per cent of the total population, they represent one-third of the prison population.

To these statistics is added a startling fact: Almost half the Maori population is under 15 and scarcely any Maoris over 30 are in jail.

This conditions New Zealand authorities to view the Maori delinquency problem as social, rather than criminal. These, for the most part, are children in trouble. But if the trend continues unchecked the individual difficulties of the natives who run foul of the law could build up into a major racial problem.

The minister of justice, Mr. Josiah R. Hanan, has called for an attack on the problem by all sections of the community. It is to be hoped this approach works. A nation which has enjoyed such an enviable reputation for its treatment of the natives—far ahead of that customary among other peoples 30 or 40 years ago—deserves success in this effort. Obviously the cause of the difficulty is more deep-rooted than casual bad behaviour on the part of individuals in the native minority.

Mission Accomplished

A SENSE OF REAL ACCOMPLISHMENT was felt this week by the many thousands of Victorians who contributed to the Royal Jubilee Hospital building fund.

Their generosity, along with funds from the Greater Victoria municipalities and the provincial and federal governments, culminated in "Operation Switch" which began Tuesday as the first patients were transferred to the comfortable and modern $2,500,000, five-storey hospital wing.

From all accounts the new wing, even though all the equipment is not yet installed, is living up to the highest expectations of the hospital's board of directors and staff. They see at last an end to the crowding and difficulties which have resulted in the last decade as a result of the rapid increase in population in the area which the hospital serves.

With the new wing completed, and all facilities expected to be installed within the next two months, work will start on long-needed renovations in the main hospital. When this is completed next spring it will mark the end of a six-year effort to bring the Royal Jubilee up to the highest standards of hospital accommodation.

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

For Civilian Decision

IN reading what the military chieftains have to say about the test ban treaty, we must not forget that the fundamental issue is not military.

It is not one on which a military man as such has any special competence. The fundamental issue is one of scientific method, whether continued testing in the atmosphere will produce significant, perhaps decisive, military advantages either for the Soviet Union or the United States.

The opinions of General Power and General Lemay on the probable results of future tests in the atmosphere are not one bit more expert than the opinion of Secretary McNamara. They are all laymen in this field, and their opinions are at best like the opinion of a judge when he has listened to the testimony and the arguments of both sides.

The genuine experts in this field are scientists who have worked experimentally in nuclear physics and in the related fields of chemistry and biology. The crucial controversy is over the probable value of more atmospheric testing. On the one hand, there are those who, like Dr. Teller, believe that if unlimited atmospheric testing is allowed, the United States will force way ahead of the Soviet Union and will achieve the absolute weapon, an anti-missile defence, which will disarm the nuclear forces of the Soviet Union.

On the other hand, there is an array of eminent scientists who say that the more the two powers test, the more they will make the same discoveries and unlock the same secrets. The belief in a unique breakthrough is a romantic form of self-deception.

Dr. Teller's promise that American scientists will be able to do what the Soviet scientists will not be able to do is not a scientific judgment. It is a reckless pseudo-patriotic gamble on the inherent superiority of American over Russian scientists.

In the Soviet Union there are, of course, the counterparts of Dr. Teller and the Air Force generals. These Russians would also be willing to bet on the superiority of their scientists, and they too would like to try for the decisive breakthrough to an absolute weapon.

The great value of the treaty is that it takes out of the race of armaments—which will, of course, continue—most of the feverish gamble for supremacy which unlimited testing invites. The experiments are to be limited by the treaty to the laboratories and to holes in the ground.

This will not preclude the discovery of the secret of the absolute weapon if there is a secret that is possible to discover. But limiting the experiments will remove the hysteria, the violence, and the poison from the competitive search for absolute supremacy.

Good—But Purple

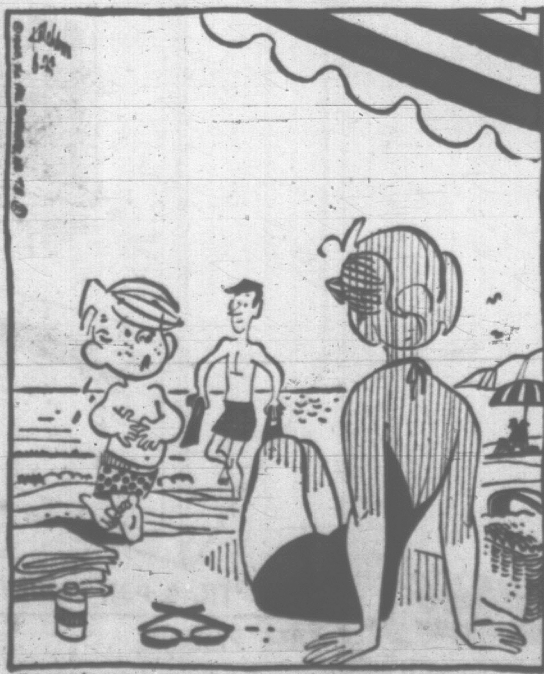

Topics in the New York Times

AS ANYONE knows who has followed the lawn mower, there is one mingled question and prayer that has arisen from many a steaming generation toward the summer heavens. With all the advance in science and chemistry, when—oh! when—will someone find a way to treat the grass so that it stays always at the same level, looks always trim and neat? Rockets and jets go here and there at the will of man, but he himself must mow the lawn.

Last week drew down an answer of sorts, if perhaps one with a built-in snigger. The Ontario Agriculture College at Guelph has been off on a project called "Shrinkaplant," and was able to announce that this has found a chemical which will indeed stop lawn growth at any desired height and thickness. The only thing possibly wrong is that the chemical also turns the lawn purple. Perhaps a new fad for purple lawns could be started, said Guelph hopefully.

No doubt the college is continuing its researches, with technicians in white coats filling test tubes and retorts with new additives which may eliminate this slight industrial bug and return the purple lawn to green. Perhaps they will succeed too quickly: It would be good to remember this one as the summer of the purple lawn, just as an earlier and noisier one was known as the Summer of The Purple People Eater.

CHINA'S NEIGHBOR

A More Subtle Danger

By Special Correspondent

THE rulers of Communist China find themselves hemmed in on three sides by nations seemingly dedicated to proving their policies wrong: to the west there is the democratic socialism of India, to the north the affluent Communism of the Soviet Union and to the east the booming free enterprise of Japan.

Japan today can hardly be called a military threat to any nation, but to the Chinese Communists she poses a more subtle danger. For, in a "great leap forward" perhaps unequalled by any other nation, Japan has moved in less than a century from being a backward feudal state to the fifth biggest industrial power in the world. To much of Asia, the vaunted attractions of Communism as a means of speeding the transition from colony to industrial power tend to grow dim beside the real achievements of Japanese capitalism.

Japan this year will produce more steel than Britain, refine more oil than any nation other than the United States and Russia, build more ships than any nation and look at more television sets than any people other than the Americans. With weekly working hours being lowered from the legal maximum of 48 to 44, or even 40, Japan is in the midst of a gigantic "leisure boom" which has brought about record sales of everything from motorcycles to Coca-Cola.

More Western

Superficially, Japan now seems more Western than Oriental. Yet this westernization is actually a repetition, on a far larger scale, of her original assimilation of Chinese culture some 1,400 years ago. Japanese today speak Japanese but write in Chinese; the influence of China can be seen in architecture, painting and religion. Older Japanese frequently have a deep sense of cultural inferiority with regard to China.

Today Japanese tend to view China with mingled longing and fear. The longing is for the vast Chinese market; the fear is for the potentialities of a powerful, fully industrialized China.

The Chinese view of Japan, on the other hand, seems to be a mixture of contempt and envy. All Japanese leaders since Shigeru Yoshida have been dismissed by the Chinese as "running dogs of the Americans." Successive clumsy attempts by such Chinese leaders as Chou En-lai and by Peking Radio to influence Japanese elections have suggested that Peking has little objective knowledge of present conditions in Japan; Japanese conservative leaders invariably wait hopefully for Peking broadcasts supporting opposition Socialists during an election campaign.

Common Enemy

Two years ago, the late Japanese Socialist Party leader Inejiro Asanuma visited Peking and after conferring with Premier Chou signed a joint statement naming "American imperialism" as the "common enemy" of China and Japan. The Socialist Party has been trying to rebuild its battered image with the Japanese voter ever since.

Militarily, the Chinese obviously regard Japan as both a paper tiger and an Aunt Sally. It is a paper tiger because, with the exception of occasional American warships calling at the two giant naval bases of Yokosuka (near Tokyo) and Sasebo (about 500 miles across the China Sea from Shanghai) and a few light bombers in Kyushu, there are no offensive weapons on Japanese soil.

The U.S. has steadily been closing her remaining bases in Japan until they are confined to support and training roles. The Japanese government is so sensitive to the possibility of becoming involved in a "brushfire war" that it has been exceedingly reluctant to allow the Americans even to stage troops through their bases in Japan to South Vietnam.

Vulnerable Bases

As both the Americans and the Japanese are aware, U.S. bases in Japan are so vulnerable that they would be of no use in a world-wide conflict. Their use as supply bases in small Asian wars would also be limited by the possibility of massive demonstrations and strikes called by leftist forces here. They are, in short, peacetime logistical bases.

But although the Chinese have little reason to fear American forces based in Japan, the remaining U.S. bases do provide excellent propaganda material against the Americans. They give the Peking authorities the chance to couple the Americans—who have no record of colonialist exploitation against the Chinese—with the Japanese, who for good reason became hated throughout China.

Yet despite their obvious contempt for Japan, the Chinese Communists have also displayed some envy of Japanese achievements. Japanese politicians, journalists and businessmen travel to Peking in a constant stream and during a recent visit by leading members of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party there were serious discussions of possible Japanese technical aid to Chinese agriculture.

Cautious Traders

Trade between the two countries has been growing slowly, but Japanese businessmen, for all the attractions of 700 million potential customers, are cautious about becoming too deeply involved in China trade. There are few items which China can export to Japan and, in the past, Japanese firms have suffered from Peking's arbitrary attitude towards contracts.

Despite the peculiar love-hate relationship between Japan and Communist China there are few signs that the two nations will draw much closer—at least so long as the Nationalist regime exists on Taiwan.

In most of South-East Asia, Japan has begun to pursue a more aggressive diplomatic policy which will conflict with China's efforts in the same region. Through reparations, loans, credits and joint enterprises, Japan is strengthening her economic ties with South-East Asia.

Meanwhile, the two most powerful nations in Asia continue to stare suspiciously at each other: they can read each other's writing, but they don't speak the same language.

London Observer Service

As Our Readers See It

No Connection

During the last few days there has been a mail campaign for funds by The Canadian Federation of the Blind throughout this area. This has brought about a great number of enquiries regarding the services provided by this organization, and I should like to take the opportunity of clarifying the situation.

The Victoria White Cane Club, whose membership is comprised of a large number of blind people in this area, is not aware of any such services rendered in this community. The Canadian Council of the Blind, which is composed of White Cane Clubs from coast-to-coast, deplores the multiplicity of appeals for funds, and points out that the Canadian National Institute for the Blind provides a full and comprehensive program for blind persons.

Support of work for the blind in this community is made possible through contributions to the Community Chest, of which the C.N.B. is a member.

(Mrs.) ELIZABETH WATLING, President, Victoria White Cane Club, C.N.B. Headquarters, 1609 Blanshard Street.

Ambiguity Removed

In a recent dispatch from London, Mr. James Reston of the New York Times noted that some European leaders, particularly those who lived through the drift and indecision that led to the two world wars, are inclined to identify President Kennedy's confrontation of Khrushchev in the Caribbean last year as one of the decisive acts of the age. It is his view, he says, that such a direct challenge to Germany in 1914 or at any time before 1937-39 would have prevented both world wars and therefore they cannot understand how it is that America itself has underrated Kennedy's retreat-or-fight challenge to Khrushchev.

So far as some of our Canadian leaders are concerned probably the less said about Kennedy's stand the better, for any general understanding of it would tend to underline the "drift and indecision" that characterized their own response to the crisis. But the event is too important, historically speaking, to be swept under the rug.

Certainly the present leadership was quick to correct the ambiguity in our position. It soon re-established contact with Washington, going ahead to accept nuclear weapons and thus closing the gap which at the height of the Cuban crisis left NATO's military heart, the United States, vulnerable along its northern approaches.

No such nuclear commitment, say the critics, was made. That could well be. But there is a formal commitment incumbent on all free nations to assist one another in the common cause.

No doubt there will be lots of paradoxes in such a complicated matter as modern defence. But at least our position is now clear of ambiguity, a much less desirable factor in defence policy.

As your newspaper defence in a realistic editorial assessment of the topic on Saturday last, having met our commitment to our allies we can now endeavor to make use of whatever resources we have available to bring about a measure of disarmament, with the goal of the complete abolition of the "bomb."

Bad Example

Being a constant reader of the Times, I was somewhat intrigued by some of the inferences shown in that contribution Aug. 16, 1963, Page 7, of David Groos MP, captioned: "Pay boost will eclipse MP moonlighting" and the further details: "People who had been down any length of time were just getting deeper and deeper into debt." He said "he had heard of cases where MPs took up teaching, selling insurance, and other night jobs, neglecting duties, to supplement their income while in high-cost-of-living Ottawa" and concluded: "This will stop that, the raise being perfectly adequate and will make sure people are full-time members."

Any employee, whether in a store, or in a bank, or as a representative of the people to govern the country, federally, provincially or municipally, who does not live within his means is a menace and a bad example to others.

Their sole thought has been their own benefit or aggrandizement, not a passing thought for the aged pensioners. They can wait. The worst feature is the example set for others to copy.

What can other countries think of such an increase, from $10,000 to $18,000 per annum, especially when the primary job facing the government was to reduce and eventually discontinue deficit financing to the tune of 2½ billion dollars, as quoted by Finance Minister Gordon.

Calling Colwood Drivers

This letter is written in the hope that it may be read by some lady or gentleman who lives in the Colwood area, and who possibly might be coming to town on Wednesday afternoons for shopping or some other purpose, and who would be willing to call for a blind lady living in that area and take her along to the meetings of the White Cane Club held every Wednesday at 1609 Blanshard Street commencing at 2 p.m. and closing with afternoon tea at a few minutes to 4 o'clock.

We would be very glad if any such volunteer would join with many other volunteers who have afternoon tea together whilst the meetings are proceeding.

Our first meeting after the summer recess will be at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, September 4.

If you will kindly phone, write or call the fullest details will be gladly given. EV 4-1323.

BETTER THAN SHORT WORK DAY

Long Holidays Pondered To Solve Unemployment

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

OTTAWA (UPI) — In a search for an economic stimulus that will have permanent effects, federal labor department experts are studying the project of a one-month-to-six weeks annual paid vacation for Canadian workers.

The shot-in-the-arm that the plan would administer to the nation's increasingly chronic malady of unemployment would be designed to be two-fold.

In the first place, it would result in mass hirings of additional workers by industry, since the holidays would be staggered over the 12-month period of the year and necessitate more employees to maintain existing production schedules.

Additionally and of even greater importance, the new leisure which Canadians would enjoy would create an immediate market for additional goods and services. A continuing boom could be expected in the construction of cottages, provision of travel facilities and accommodation, the sale of sporting, hobby and outdoor equipment, as well as transportation equipment including automobiles, motorcycles and pleasure boats.

SERVICE INDUSTRIES

The labor department experts believe that a whole new field in the so-called "services industries," which have offered the most promising prospects for the expansion of existing employment, would be opened up if the plan for extended paid holidays were adopted.

Government experts point out that the plan is already in process of adoption in the United States. In contrast negotiations of some of the largest U.S. industries, including "Big Steel," it has been accepted as a new fringe benefit being made available to workers after varying terms of employment, generally a minimum of 10 years.

Labor Minister Allan J. MacEachen told UPI that Canadian authorities have been taking a hard look at the extended holidays plan. While no government decision has been reached on it, he intimated that the permanence of its effects in stimulating an enlarged and even entirely new market for employment in the service industries made it attractive for further study.

RAISE DEMAND

"The long-term problem which must be solved if chronic unemployment is to be conquered is to raise normal demand for goods and services to levels which will absorb the employable and steadily expanding labor force," he told UPI.

The weakness which MacEachen admitted in the current crusade against unemployment launched during the recent parliamentary session is that the various municipal works and social capital projects included in it—new universities, vocational schools, hospitals, sewage schemes and urban redevelopment—were necessarily temporary in their effect. In due course they would reach completion and call for other projects to replace them if the employment to which they had given rise were not to end.

MacEachen admitted that many of the municipal works now being carried out placed a strain on the capital spending resources of the municipalities and left them as well with a continuing operating burden which would be reflected in future taxes.

The extended holiday would involve none of these disadvantages. Instead, it would spread employment, which automation has been curtailing, and create a new and lasting market for leisure time goods and services.

SHORTEN WORK WEEK

In the labor minister's view, the extended holiday would amount to an indirect shortening of the work week. This is a measure that western world economists are supporting increasingly as a means of dealing with the new unemployment.

Department of labor experts shy away from a shorter work day as a direct step to a shorter work week. They say that its immediate consequences are too likely to be an increase in "moonlighting"—one person holding more than one job.

The progress made by the 40-hour week in recent years, labor department officials say, already has made moonlighting a considerable problem.

But the extended holidays plan is attended by no such difficulties. That is why so far it appeals strongly to the labor department experts who are studying it.

The plan has not yet become the subject of government decision, nor will any definite step be taken without prior consultation with the provinces—it has difficulties of constitutional jurisdiction—with organized labor, and with representatives of industry. But the prospects for its realization are far from dim.

ART STOTT ON VACATION

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Through the Looking Glass

Each of us conducts a search for beauty. We find it in some form of art, or discover it in one of the many faces of nature.

Whether it is in clouds, bird or insect life, or in flowers, it is not ours to keep but to share.

Among our readers are several who are following their hobby from wheelchairs and with them we would like today to share the idea of noticing in particular the most miniature blossoms in their gardens.

Miniatures have fascinated the human race for ages, and even the most casual study of small flowers may open up new vistas for someone who desperately needs a fresh interest.

The ordinary scarlet salvia blossom examined under a magnifying glass yields a hairy surface not suspected when viewed by the naked eye, and the red tongue stuck out at us in defiance is quite separate from the outer tube.

The lowly Golden-rod turns out to be a tiny daisy, truly exquisite in its proportions, and the summer Meadow-rue exhibits a daintiness which makes me wish I were an artist. The four lavender sepals form a background for bundles of stamens of the same shade, each one tipped with yellow.

A botanist would tell you the use of each flower part, but the simple enjoyment of form and color is something we would like to share with gardeners who need just a little more beauty in their lives.

Even the minute flowers of grasses and weeds are magnificent when enlarged for the eye to enjoy their design, and their viewing could well afford many hours of pleasure for those unable to tread the garden paths.

Merchants Favor Tax Cut

REGINA (CP)—A sweeping set of recommendations that would chop millions of dollars from revenue department tax collections, was proposed today by the Retail Merchants' Association (Saskatchewan Incorporated).

This is what it asked the royal commission on taxation to recommend:

1. Cut personal income taxes by 7½ per cent the first year, 15 per cent the second year and 22½ per cent the third year.
2. Cut corporation taxes by 5 per cent a year for three years.
3. All couples should be completely exempt from income tax during the year in which they marry.

4. Business should be allowed to set up tax-free investment reserves.
5. Workers should be allowed, under the Income Tax Act, to put more money in retirement savings plans.
6. The excise tax on cigarettes, cigars and tobacco should be reduced by 10 per cent immediately.

BIG SAVING

The association's brief said that under its proposals and using current tax revenues as a base, personal income taxpayers would save $156,620,000 during the first year and $469,882,183 in the third year. Corporation taxpayers would save $65,175,131 in the first year.

The brief said revenues lost through these proposals would be recovered through the sales taxes on increased consumer spending.

In reducing the rate of corporation tax, the association recommended the tax base be broadened to cover all businesses, including Crown corporations, on the same basis.

In calling for total exemption for newly married couples, the association said many of these young people are still in university. "Setting up a household is expensive and money is usually short at this time."

Tax Exemption For Religion Criticized

REGINA (CP)—In three successive briefs, the royal commission on taxation today was asked to recommend the repeal of a section of the Income Tax Act that grants full exemption to members of religious orders who have taken a vow of perpetual poverty.

"Nuns and lay brothers should be required to pay their share of federal income tax for the upkeep of our country as are all other servants of the country," said the Grand Orange Lodge of Saskatchewan.

"These income tax preferences constitute a disturbing departure from the principle of separation of church and state," said the Protestant League of Saskatchewan.

The briefs followed similar criticism by a group of Baptist ministers in Vancouver last week who said that by allowing members of orders to turn over tax-free salaries to those orders, the government was actually helping to support the Roman Catholic Church.

The brief from the Grand Orange Lodge said: "It means that a member of a religious order who has taken a vow of perpetual poverty simply turns his cheque over to a religious order and they in turn pay all expenses. This transaction makes it possible to evade the payment of income tax. Protestant clergymen and Protestant religious workers, as a general rule, cannot come under the provisions of this act and they are forced to pay income tax the same as any other citizen."

'GIVE SMALL PROSPECTOR A BREAK'

REGINA (CP)—It's time the small prospector got a break under the Income Tax Act, says the Saskatchewan Chamber of Mines.

And in order to get mineral development rolling in Canada, it asked the royal commission on taxation today to recommend that all individuals and non-incorporated associations be allowed to deduct from taxable income all expenses incurred in exploring and developing mines.

Incorporated mining companies already have such allowances.

Skrien Denies Trade Rumors

(Times News Services)

Rumors of a four-man player deal between Toronto Argonauts and B.C. Lions have hit Canadian Football League circles. The Lions, however, say there's nothing to the reports.

Collett, Woodley Step Up

Victoria Shamrocks have recruited Mike Woodley and Dave Collett from their junior team for tonight's crucial Inter-City Lacrosse League playoff game in New Westminster.

The best-of-seven series is deadlocked 2-2. The sixth game will be played in Memorial Arena Monday and the seventh, if necessary, at New Westminster next Wednesday.

Both juniors were standouts Thursday when the junior Shamrocks scored a 9-8 victory over South Vancouver Legion in the second game of their B.C. playoff.

Senior manager Hec McNeill also said Fred Wooster will start in goal tonight. Barry Forbes, Rocks' other netminder who was injured in Wednesday's game at Memorial Arena, won by the Irish, 7-5, will make the trip as the reserve.

Dalziel In Final Of Golf Tourney

WASAGAMING, Man. (CP)—The 30th annual Clear Lake men's golf tournament here today had an international final after Noel Dalziel of Valley City, N.D., and Bob Cornell of Brandon came through Thursday with semifinal victories.

Dalziel, formerly of Victoria, B.C., ousted Winnipeg's Clare Leatherdale, while Cornell won against Vic Fehrenback of Yorkton, Sask.

England Pushed Out By Shooting Charlie

LONDON (AP)—The West Indies cricketers went into lunch with a score of 94 runs for the loss of two wickets today in reply to England's first-innings total of 275 in the fifth and final test match.

The West Indies leads the series with two wins against one by England, with the other match drawn.

This was the second day of the five-day match and a sell-out crowd of 27,000 packed London's Oval ground.

On Thursday, great bowling by West Indies pace man Charlie Griffith pushed England out for 275 after a fifth-wicket stand had saved the home side from more serious trouble.

Griffith, who took six wickets for 71, had a good shooting spell when England appeared in position to take the win needed to square the series.

Victoria a thrill-packed 8-8 victory over Legion.

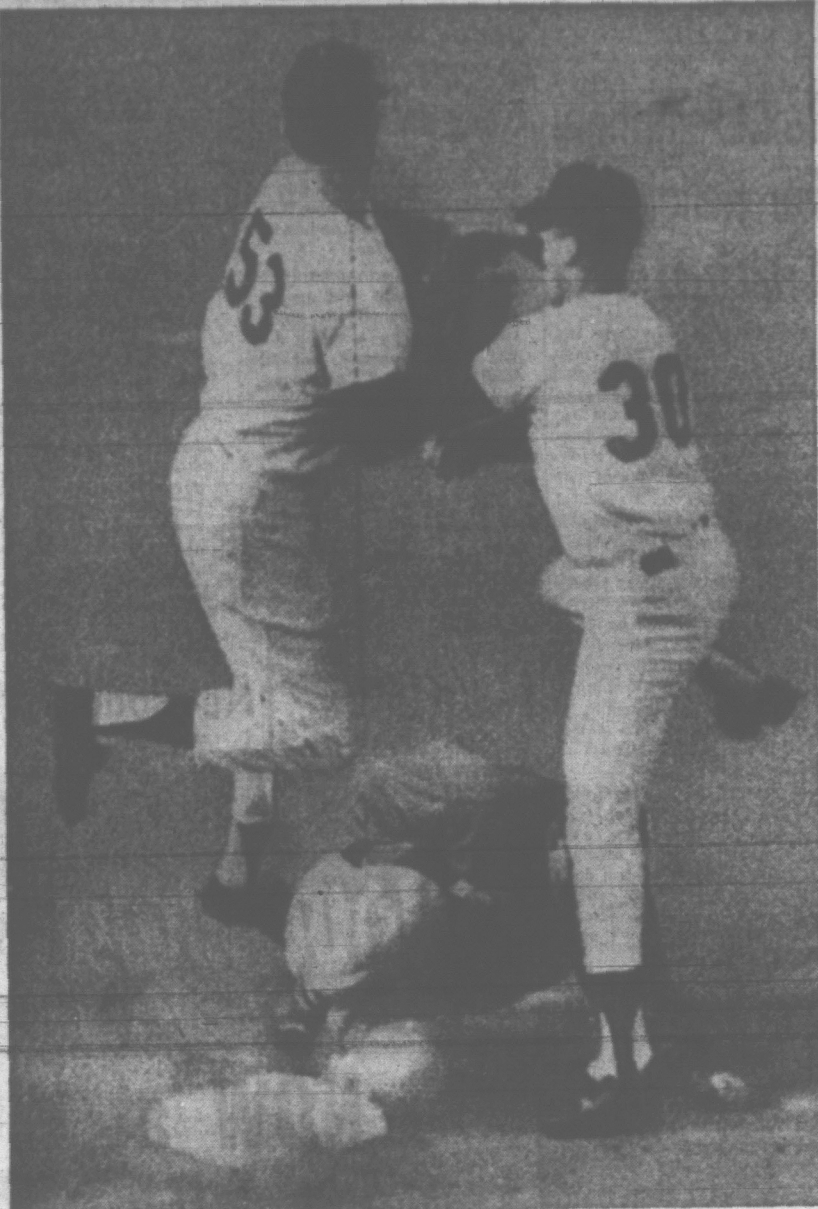

Shamrocks, who fired seven fourth-quarter goals as they downed the Vancouver club 12-7 in Victoria Tuesday, can wrap up the series when the series moves back to Victoria's Memorial Arena at 3 Sunday afternoon.

Shamrocks went into the fourth quarter of Thursday's bruising battle nursing a skimpy 6-5 lead and then appeared on the way to another runaway surge.

They made it 8-5 on tallies by Bill Munroe and Dave Collett. But Vancouver struck back as Bill Robinson, again the leader of the Legion, wheeled in for two goals and big Gord Fredrickson fired another to tie the score with five minutes remaining.

Both clubs had a few fine chances in the closing minutes, but neither could hit the target until Kilduff connected for the winner on a fine individual effort.

Munroe, with three, Dave Collett, two, Ranjit, Dillon, Glen Vickers, Bob Holness and Kilduff accounted for Victoria's scoring total. Robinson and Joe Hamlin each scored twice to spark Legion's attack.

DODGERS STILL DAFFY

Big Stuart Tops Ted —And He'll Tell You!

By United Press International.

Cocky Dick Stuart may be all talk and a yard wide but he can always say he topped Ted Williams.

And don't worry about the big uninhibited Boston first baseman—he'll say it all right because it happens to be true in one respect, anyway.

When Pittsburgh Pirates traded Stuart to the Red Sox last winter, so the story goes, he was asked whether he felt he would hit more homers than Williams did at Fenway Park.

Stuart promptly inquired: "How many did he hit his first year up?"

"I OUGHTTA!"

Informed that Williams had belted 31 homers his first season with the Red Sox, Stuart said "I oughtta" hit more than that.

And he has.

Stuart, the American League home run leader, smashed his 33rd of the year with one on Thursday to help the Red Sox wallop the Chicago White Sox 11-2.

Stuart, however, didn't quite do the job on the White Sox alone. Ed Bressoud drove in six runs with a grand slam homer and two sacrifice flies while rookie Dave Morehead earned his eighth victory with a seven-hitter.

YANKS BOW

New York Yankees retained their 10-game lead even though they dropped a 7-4 decision to the Cleveland Indians; Baltimore Orioles roughed up Los Angeles Angels, 5-1, and Kansas City Athletics beat Washington Senators, 6-2, in the only other A.L. games scheduled.

In the National, St. Louis Cardinals won the third and final game of their series with Los Angeles Dodgers, 3-2, and it probably was more in the nature of a consolation victory than anything else.

The disappointed Cards, who lost the first two games of a vital showdown series, had the satisfaction of snapping the Dodgers' seven-game winning streak. That was mighty small consolation considering that the Dodgers still lead the National League by 6½ games today.

In the only other N.L. games scheduled, San Francisco Giants snapped their five-game losing streak with an 8-6 victory over Milwaukee Braves and the Pirates beat Chicago Cubs, 9-3.

FISHING REPORT

Big Salmon At Cowichan And Alberni

Prospects for salmon anglers this weekend vary from poor to fairly good with none of the favorite Vancouver Island areas rated a sure bet for fast action.

Among the less productive waters during the past week have been those from Oak Bay to Otter Point, but with salmon moving toward spawning rivers and tides improving, catches could improve in a hurry.

Among the better areas have been Cowichan Bay and Alberni Canal. Fishing for big springs has been steady at Cowichan in the early mornings and several good-tyee catches have been reported from sections of the Alberni Canal.

Here are the weekend salmon prospects, according to reports submitted by boathouse operators:

FLUNDER-BAY-OTTER POINT
Fishing only fair. A few springs up to 35 pounds, some coho, and some humpbacks. Run of humpbacks reported out of centre of the strait but few showing near shore.

VICTORIA-DAWKIN
Fishing very slow. The odd spring being taken, including a 30-pounder Thursday of Tidal Island. Just a few coho reported, no humpbacks.

SAANICH INLET
Fishing fair. Some coho taken Thursday morning between the Boulders and Bamerton, with some springs being off of Willis Point and in McKenzie Bay. A few big springs in Grouseman area. Fair number of gillie, but none are under legal (12 inch) size.

COWICHAN BAY
Fishing fairly good. Fair number of springs up to 44 pounds being taken during early morning along west end and near river mouth. A few coho being taken in separation Point-Saanich Narrows area.

PARKSVILLE-NORTHWEST BAY
Fishing only fair. Some coho being taken on herring strip and herring flies. Very few springs. Best times seem to be mornings and tide changes.

QUILCUM BEACH
Fishing fairly good. Good numbers of coho in 8-10 foot class being caught, generally on baitfish flies. Several springs up to 25 pounds have been taken, but no humpbacks. Mornings and evenings best.

CAMPBELL RIVER
Fishing generally poor this week. Some coho being caught on Tom Mackie's and baitfish flies in Browns area. A few tyee being caught. A 60-pounder was taken last weekend in the Tyee Pool.

ALBERNI CANAL
Fishing fairly good for springs and tyees. Several large salmon being taken off of China Creek, Fraser River and Nahmint. New run of springs appears to be moving in and could provide good catches this weekend.

Four Survive Boat Explosion, Sinking

LADYSMITH (CP) — A Vancouver man and his companion leaped into the harbor when their 36-foot boat exploded.

John Livingston Phelps and an unidentified companion were picked up by a boom boat.

RCMP said the Klee-Wych exploded just after leaving the boat basin, and was a total loss.

Fire Chief Harry Blair said the boat just went up in a ball of flame and his department was unable to do anything.

Police said the explosion was probably caused by gas fumes. It was the second boat loss in two days in Island waters.

Wednesday the 35-foot troller Leo S. sank five miles from Lennard Island Lighthouse off Tofo. Two men aboard were rescued by another troller.

DUNCAN — The municipality will pay Mr. E. O. Suominen $88 for seven sheep which were killed and four which were injured when attacked by an unidentified dog.

Mr. Suominen said that two dogs attacked his flock, and he shot one, but the other escaped. The owner of the dead dog paid $100 in small debts court. Mr. Suominen estimated his loss at $265.

Probation Officer Leaves

PORT ALBERNI — District probation officer John Hogarth leaves at the weekend to study at Cambridge University's institute of criminology.

His replacement will be William Russell, who, like Mr. Hogarth, is a University of B.C. graduate.

Mr. Hogarth will take his wife, a social worker, for his stay in England from one to three years, during which time they expect to visit many correctional institutions in Europe.

He said he would like to see family service work developed in the Alberni, with mental health facilities at Nanaimo serving the valley.

"Specialized counselling should be carried on in the school system so that problems can be dealt with before they become acute," he said.

Board Supports Overpass

NANAIMO — Unanimous support to Wellington Parent-Teacher Association was reaffirmed by Nanaimo School Board Wednesday in the Jingle Pot-Island Highway controversy.

The PTA seeks adequate safety measures for school children at the dangerous crossing, and members have endorsed a residents' demand for an overpass.

The highways department will not build an overpass, but will hire retired men to patrol the crossing and escort children over the highway.

Tyee Club Officers Named

CAMPBELL RIVER — W. C. Mainwaring of Vancouver has been elected president of the Tyee Club of B.C.

Other officers are: W. H. McMillan, Victoria, honorary president; Dr. J. Benjamin, Cincinnati, vice-president.

Trustees: Ron Ferguson, Denver, Colo.; Reg Sinclair, Markburg, Colo.; Reuben Youngquist, Mount Vernon, Wash.; Dr. Gavin Chisholm, Victoria. Mrs. Maxine Van Egan, Campbell River, is secretary.

New Diving Tower Sought

DUNCAN — The replacing of a diving tower at Fullers Lake Park was recommended Wednesday by Councillor Gerry Smith, who also suggested that the replacement include the addition of two low diving boards. He stated that he had received several complaints that the present diving tower was dangerous.

Taxi Application Approved

NORTH COWICHAN — North Cowichan council Wednesday approved a request from D. E. Schutte, of Duncan, to establish a taxi service in the district.

Mr. Schutte informed council that he has considerable experience in taxi operations, and that he intends to serve the Duncan area and the south end of the municipality.

A month ago Duncan council endorsed the request, and now Mr. Schutte is awaiting approval of the Public Utilities Commission in Vancouver.

He said he was advised that a hearing would be held at Vancouver.

Reeve Donald C. Morton felt the hearing should be held in Duncan. General opinion of the council was that the additional taxi service is needed as there is only one other taxi firm in Duncan.

TRADE SCHOOL TO ADD ROOMS

NANAIMO — Vocational training facilities here will undergo a $200,000 expansion, says the Nanaimo school board.

The board has given unanimous support to a brief outlining the program. Included in the expansion would be $61,850 for building additions to the senior high school, and more than $100,000 for equipment.

Brief will be forwarded to B.C. vocational authorities for possible revision.

People Flock To Oversee Dam Building

A $30,000 observation gallery at the Peace River dam site has attracted 2,500 visitors in the six weeks since it was opened, a B.C. Hydro official said Thursday.

"We expect to get 5,000 visitors this year, and within about two years the figure should double," he said.

The observation area is perched on the side of the Peace Canyon wall, a few feet downstream of the dam site, at Portage Mountain.

It includes a deck on stilts, a parking area for 24 cars and a 33-square-foot building with a coffee bar and restrooms.

3½-mile road from the main Hudson Hope road provides access to the area and is also used by contractors' trucks.

The observation post was the idea of B.C. Hydro co-chairman, Dr. Gordon Shrum. He sees the Peace project as a big tourist attraction.

Already a coachline is running weekend excursions from Fort St. John.

MODERN STYLING 'OKAY'

City planner Roderick Clack doesn't agree with a Hollywood movie-set designer that Victoria is "ruining its atmosphere with high-rise apartments and functional-type buildings."

Canadian-born Edward Boyle suggested modern buildings should be camouflaged on the outside to conform with Victoria's historic tradition.

"That would be a dishonest approach," Mr. Clack said today. "We don't want a movie-set city or another Disneyland."

"We should develop honestly through the use of good modern design contrasting with the genuine historic buildings we have."

"A city must grow in the contemporary idiom of its time, and that, I think, is what Victoria is doing. To put up, say, a half-timbered high-rise building would be the height of absurdity."

Mr. Clack admitted that Victoria is subject to "some shoddy design" in its new buildings and said this could be counteracted by design control.

"If we had design control, as many cities do, it would tend to raise our standards of design."

Mr. Clack said Vancouver has taken a lead in this direction by having design control in part of its down-town amenity area.

"This control has only been in operation for about two and a half years," he said, "but it is beginning to show results."

At the Empress Hotel, Mr. Boyle said he had received a number of messages from local residents and tourist promoters supporting his antagonism to high-rise apartments and plain functional-type buildings in Victoria.

He returned to Hollywood Thursday.

Outdoor Politics At Weekend Camp

First New Democratic Youth Campout on Vancouver Island will be held Labor Day Weekend at Zudezee Campsite on Quenell Lake, near Nanaimo.

Robert M. Strachan (MLA-Cowichan-Newcastle) will address the campers. Also on the program are group discussions, games and a hootenanny.

Similar campouts have been held this summer on the Lower Mainland.

SCHOOL BOARD SAYS CASTLE FOR BUSINESS

Greater Victoria School board has rejected a bid to put a tourist attraction into its office building—historic Craigdarroch Castle.

Promoter William Georgeon submitted a plan to build a "camera obscura" in one of the castle's upper rooms, like a giant camera into which people could walk and see views of Victoria projected on a screen.

Mr. Georgeon wanted to use telescopic lenses, and said the high roof of the castle would be ideal for his plan.

"This is a business building," said trustee Peter Bunn as the board turned down the plan.

SWEEP TICKETS COUNTERFEIT?

MONTREAL (CP)—Some of the 100,000 sweepstakes tickets seized in a series of 30 raids earlier this week may be counterfeit, a senior police official said Thursday. "If this is the case, charges of fraud will also be laid," he said. The arrest of two more persons was reported Thursday in the continuing crackdown on distribution of sweepstakes tickets.

AFTER VOTE

India Cabinet To Undergo Major Shuffle

By ADRIENNE FARRELL

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — A new look was in store for the Indian cabinet today following Prime Minister Nehru's conclusive defeat of a parliamentary non-confidence motion against his government Thursday.

A major cabinet reshuffle was expected to end a two-week state of "suspended resignation" among top ranking ministers of Nehru's ruling Congress party. It was decided earlier this month that some senior ministers should quit their posts to take up party work.

All the central cabinet ministers and states' chief ministers, as well as some other state ministers, offered their resignations.

The party entrusted Nehru with deciding which members of his cabinet and which chief ministers should be transferred to party work and which should remain in office.

Observers believed the 364-to-61 defeat of the non-confidence motion, the first in the history of Nehru's government, would enable the prime minister to go about the party reorganization from a position of increased strength.

The victory followed four days of bitter debate and attacks by opposition members against the Congress party and Nehru personally.

Nehru's chief critic, J. B. Kripplani, former Congress party president and now an independent, who presented the censure motion, said Nehru "treats the country with contempt."

Kripplani appealed for all party lines to be swept away in the vote in which he was supported by all non-Communist opposition members.

In a slashing counter-attack, Nehru told Parliament Communist China was "gloating" over the non-confidence motion. He defended the country's economic progress, but said he agreed the government had failed to move fast enough on the road to socialism.

However, he added, Chinese progress in this direction was made at a cost in human liberty which he did not want. He said Indian foreign policy had succeeded in putting the nation in "a far more advantageous position than China."

Soldier's Wife Wins Inquiry

A complaint by an army wife about prospective housing conditions will be investigated at Ottawa.

Associate Defence Minister Lucien Cardin promised the inquiry at a press conference in Admiral's House, HMC Dockyard, on Thursday.

Early this week the anonymous wife of a PPCLI soldier told The Times she was refusing to move to Germany with the First Battalion because she and her two children would have to live with a German family and possibly share bathroom and kitchen facilities.

PISTOL-TOTING PATS CHAMPS OF CANADA

On the eve of its departure for service in Germany, the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, has won a coveted honor—the small arms championship of the Canadian Army.

Eighteen men were on the team which competed at Connaught Rifle Range, Ottawa, for five days last week.

Among rifle events won by the PPCLI team were: The Dundonald match, the Borden match, the Sir Arthur Currie team match, the Gascolgne service conditions team aggregate, the British challenge shield, and the Commissioner Woods RCMP trophy.

Back to Desks Today's Order For Aldermen

Summer recess ends for city council today.

The whirl of committee and council meetings will return next week with a vengeance as house-moving chores are added to the usual business.

Both works and finance committee meetings are scheduled and a meeting of the civic precinct committee will have to be called.

The latter will decide when civic headquarters will be moved into temporary accommodation at the old Bastion Square courthouse while City Hall is renovated and expanded.

Target date of late September suggested earlier for the move likely will be moved back at next week's meeting to about mid-October to ease scheduling problems and give more time for putting the courthouse into shape.

Does Election Put Merger In Jeopardy?

City Hall officials were caught in complete surprise by Premier W. A. C. Bennett's snap election call but none would say whether they approved or disapproved.

Mayor R. B. Wilson, unlike pugnacious Vancouver Mayor William Rathie, prefers a policy of strict neutrality towards politics at either the provincial or federal level.

Although he was still away on holiday, his attitude was scrupulously followed by other civic officials.

However, observers immediately began speculating that the election would throw into suspense all provincial moves towards merging of Greater Victoria's police services in which City Hall is keenly interested.

OTHER DEALS AFFECTED

The election's outcome also could have an impact on a number of other civic concerns, particularly hopes for renovation and beautification of the Inner Harbor, some road projects and improvements in taxation grants.

In Saanich, where several councillors have publicly criticized various provincial ministers, the election contest also is likely to be followed with particular interest.

Wheat Board Veteran Dies Here at Age 78

James R. Murray, former chairman of the Canadian Wheat Board, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Thursday.

He was 78, and had been living in retirement here for the past 20 years.

Many localized institutions benefited from his little-publicized philanthropies.

Mr. Murray resigned as chairman of the board after supervising the disposal of a 295,000 wheat surplus in only eight months. He then resigned, saying he felt his job was done.

Mr. Murray was a native of Limerick, Ireland, and was educated at private schools and Trinity College, Dublin.

He entered Canada at Halifax, and went to Winnipeg where he worked in the Canadian Pacific Railway freight yards.

Later he worked in the Port Arthur area as bush camp teamster and in 1909 joined the then Grain Growers' Company in Winnipeg as a clerk. He was appointed assistant general manager in 1916 and after the union with the Alberta Elevator Company in 1917 to form the United Grain Growers, he was made manager of UGG's eastern division. He was credited with a major role in working out the pool system.

He was secretary of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange for a time in 1930 but resigned the same year to become general manager of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company.

He became chairman of the Canadian Wheat Board Dec. 22, 1937, at the invitation of the King government. He resigned after the 295,000-bushel sale.

Until recent years, he was a keen competitor in the annual Seniors' Pacific Northwest Golf Association tournament.

He is survived by the widow, Verna Marjorie, 1178 Beach Drive; a son, James Richard, managing director of the Hudson's Bay Company; and two daughters, Mrs. G. H. Ford of Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. W. M. Gage of Victoria. He also is survived by a sister, Helen, in England.

Private funeral services are to be held Saturday.

Noble Effort By 'Count' Collects Car

A Saanich car dealer doesn't think a European count he met the other day was very noble.

The man drove off in a 1960 Chrysler Imperial after passing a bad cheque for $4,500.

Now police are looking for the car and the count.

The man, who speaks with a European accent, told salesmen he belonged to the European nobility.

He inspected several high-priced models Wednesday and then left. Later in the day, after banks had closed, he returned.

This time he said he wanted to buy the Chrysler. He paid for it by cheque and left.

The dealer discovered Thursday the cheque was no good.

Liz Is Expecting, But Bugs Unhappy

A fat nine-inch lizard from Israel is expected to hatch 13 eggs at Jim Oyen's Duncan zoo within the next two months—and she is getting ready for the happy event by feeding on grasshoppers and termites.

"You might say she is doing well," said Mr. Oyen, who came here from The Hague, Holland, 11 years ago and started his private zoo in 1958.

Born in the Holy Land of Israel, "Lizzie" was raised in an Amsterdam laboratory and sent to Mr. Oyen as a gift. She lives a more or less "natural" life with many other lizards kept in a miniature desert at Mr. Oyen's zoo.

NEST EGGS GROWING

When "Lizzie" laid her eggs last Monday, they were only half an inch long. Now they have expanded to about one inch long and three quarters of an inch wide.

No one knows whom she married. There were some 40 male lizards to choose from, and most of them might be described as friendly to females despite a trend towards cannibalism where males are concerned.

"Lizzie" is officially described as an agama stellio lizard.

which thrives on Israel's warm climate. But she is in good shape at Duncan and can be seen anytime during zoo hours.

NOW UP TO THE EGGS

Her eggs are buried in warm sand and, if fertile, will mature without any help.

Mr. Oyen says the agama stellio is one lizard family out of 21 families with approximately 2,500 different species.

He has two seven-inch Vancouver Island lizards and about 57 others from Israel, Brazil, Mexico, Texas, Arizona, Italy, Egypt—and one from Russia!

Some months ago, a snake laid eggs at Mr. Oyen's zoo, but they failed to hatch.

Mr. Oyen is confident "Lizzie" will bring forth a sturdy new generation.

Weeping Man Beats Breast To Ease Guilt

A Hungarian wept and beat his breast when he appeared in Saanich magistrate's court Thursday charged with possession of stolen property.

"I just feel guilty," Joseph Marton, 1021 Fern, told Magistrate William Ostler.

Marton, 26, earlier pleaded guilty to the theft of groceries from a supermarket. Police laid the possession charge after searching his home and finding a stolen chain saw and other items.

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie indicated more charges will be laid against Marton when investigation is completed.

Police estimate the value of goods involved is about $7,000.

Magistrate Ostler had already asked for a probation report on Marton arising out of the theft charge.

Marton will again appear in court to face any new charges Aug. 27.

Duncan Boys Win Sail Boat Race In Quebec Meet

Two Duncan boys piloted their craft to victory Thursday at Montreal in the third national Boy Scouts sailing regatta.

Charles Coleman and Murrigh O'Brien won one of two races held Thursday in the daily series. Taking the other race were Jim Halliburton and Tom McGrail of Halifax.

Twenty crews from nine provinces, the United States, Israel and Bermuda are competing in what amounts to the Canadian open Scout yachting championships.

FIVE PER CENT TAX BIG EARNER

A Mickle Makes a Muckle, As Scots Say

By FRANK RUTTER

It's only a nickel at a time—but it now represents 25 per cent of the revenues of the provincial government.

What is it?

The B.C. 5 per cent sales tax.

Figures released Thursday by the provincial finance department put the tax income in its new perspective.

In the last financial year, which ended March 31, sales tax revenues totalled $96,946,531.

The province's total revenue was $361,000,000.

The sales tax is now the biggest single source of money for the government.

The past year's receipts exceeded estimates by more than $9,000,000.

Even income tax, which always used to be the number one revenue source, is $20,000,000 less—a total of $76,600,000 the past year.

Road users contribute the next biggest slice of revenue to the provincial coffers—a total of $64,000,000 from gasoline tax and licence fees.

Next come natural resources—forests, minerals, land and water—with $62,700,000.

The only other big-time source of revenue is liquor, which contributed $31,200,000.

The actual revenues for the year were higher than estimated in all major categories.

It was an opposite situation in government spending. Only three government departments spent more money than allocated in the budget, and all were relatively small amounts.

The social welfare department spent an extra $600,000, most of which went on social assistance, and some of it on maintaining dependent children.

The labor department went $29,000 over its allocation—all on its apprenticeship training, which had an expanded branch program.

The municipal affairs department was $17,000 overspent—all on winter works aid.

All the other departments spent less than their budget allocations—some considerably less.

SCHOOL STARTS NEXT WEEK

For Some It's Beginning, For Others—The End

For school children, it's the beginning of the end of summer—school opens Sept. 3.

In fact, for junior high and senior high school students new to the school district, registration starts next week.

All elementary school students must report to the nearest elementary school at 9 a.m., Sept. 3, whether or not they have been registered already.

They will be released about noon.

Senior high school students (Grades 11 and 12) will register Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Victoria and Oak Bay High schools, and Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Esquimalt, Mount Douglas and Mount View high schools.

Registration hours at both junior and senior high schools are 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and 1 to 3 p.m.

For students who are returning to the same school, registration is not required. They simply report back to school Sept. 3 at specified times.

For Esquimalt, Colquitz, Lansdowne and Central Junior high schools, Grade 8 reports at 9, Grade 9 at 10, and Grade 10 at 11.

For Gordon Head Junior high: Grade 7 at 9, Grade 8 at 10, Grade 9 at 11.

All occupational students report to their own schools Sept. 3, with Year One reporting with Grade 8, and Year Two with Grade 9.

In senior high schools, Grade 10 reports at 9, Grade 11 at 10, and Grade 12 at 11. Junior and senior high school pupils will also be released at noon.

Topics of the Day

"A" group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the old Monterey parking lot for a field trip to the power line right-of-way off Munn Road.

The Nature House at Francis Park will be open during the week from 9 a.m. till 5 p.m.

J. F. Gregory, Victoria's new police chief, is expected to arrive here early next week to pick up some loose ends before taking over formally Sept. 1 as successor to retiring Chief John Blackstock.

Chief Gregory currently is surveying police stations in Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge so he can recommend changes to the city police building which was severely criticized by George Archer's report.

Work on the new Craigflower School will begin by September 3 and the school will be ready for occupancy by Christmas.

Trustee George Curran said on Thursday.

Until the new building is completed, two classes using the present 50-year-old school will be on the shift system because of the lack of space.

The old school will be demolished when the new one is built alongside.

G. H. Wheaton, Ltd., which bid $278,952, will build the school.

Scandinavian Brotherhood will hold its annual picnic Sunday at Elk Lake, beginning at noon.

Races and tests of skill will be featured.

Former Victorian Loses New Home

An eight-room house at the Mill Bay-Shawnigan Lake cut-off, 11 miles south of Duncan, burned to the ground at 3:15 this morning.

The house was occupied by William Shornlesky, who only recently moved from 4750 Beaver Road, Victoria.

Shawnigan Lake detachment RCMP constable Hugh Boyer said the cause of the blaze is not known.

It is used, among other things, to bring youngsters to the PNE from remote parts of the province.

DEAR ABBY . . .

'A Mother In the Highest Form'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the letter from "MOTHER OF FIVE" who took you to task for calling a woman with a pre-fabricated family a "mother in the highest form": She asks, "What does a woman who has adopted four children know about the joy of first learning that she is to bear a child? What does she know about the beauty of carrying a child under her heart? What does she know about the thrill of hearing a child's first cry?" I would like to answer her, Abby:

I have known the joy of first learning that I was to bear child five times, only to lose them all near the end of my time. I even had the thrill once of hearing my child's first cry, only to be told three hours later that I had lost her, too. But I did experience the fulfillment of motherhood because, thanks to an adoption agency, we were "blessed" with three healthy, beautiful, well-mannered, well-adjusted and loving children. We could not love them more if they had been born to us.

PLEASE CALL ME "MOTHER"

DEAR "MOTHER": To the adoption agency goes the credit for "blessing" you with healthy, beautiful children. But they became well-adjusted, well-mannered and loving because of you.

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy who is going to be 15 soon. I have a boy friend my age. One day I went over to his house when he was home alone. He told me to walk in, so of course I did. He shocked me. He was all dressed up in his MOTHER'S clothes! He said, "Take a look at me." Then he said it was "fun," and I should get dressed up in ladies' clothes, too. I said, "Drop dead—if that's all you have to do in your spare time. I will see you later." I walked out of the house. I am wondering now—is he sick? What should I do about it? I'm sure his parents don't know. I am all shook up over it.

SHOOK UP

DEAR SHOOK: Tell your parents—but no one else. The boy apparently is "sick."

DEAR ABBY: That "Dr. K." who said that there were only two cases on record where women over 46 have given birth to babies has a lot to learn. I was the last of nine children, and my mother was 50 when she gave birth to me. And I'm sure I didn't make medical history. Enclosed is a recent clipping reporting that a 70-year-old woman has given birth to a baby in Eastern Nigeria. Sincerely yours,

M.S. CONFIDENTIAL TO "AUNT EUNIE": Most people have some sort of religion, if only in knowing which church they are staying away from.

Tell your troubles to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fabric Must Be Reversible To Achieve Chevron Effect

"Dear Eunice:

"The fashion books are filled with pictures of suits and coats that are made of diagonal weave fabrics. It seems that you told us you could not achieve a chevron effect from this type fabric. Is this true?" Mrs. D.R.

Dear Mrs. D.R.:

I will repeat this answer because it has come up so often. It is impossible to form a chevron or "V" effect from your stripes unless the fabric is REVERSIBLE (most are not). Chevron effects are achieved most commonly by using vertically striped fabric on the bias. In a true diagonal woven fabric, all the stripes will go in the same direction, usually from the left shoulder to the right side of the skirt. It is best to check on your pattern to see if this type of fabric is suitable for your exact pattern.

Talk Turkey With Family Over This Menu Suggestion

By PENNY SAVER

Perhaps it isn't so in your household, but turkey always brings to my mind Christmas and stuffing (both of the fowl and oneself). Very seldom during the rest of the year does my family think to vary its meat diet of pork, beef or lamb with turkey. One reason is again association. Turkeys to us mean big turkeys—ones that will feed all the relatives and friends that drop in during the festive season.

The family will get a surprise this weekend, though. While shopping today I found that one store stresses that they have a good stock of "wee turkeys." These are always priced about $3.00—which at 59 cents a pound means that most of them weigh a little more or less than five pounds.

If yours is the average hungry family, this will feed six of its members quite easily.

Turkeys are fresh, frozen, cleaned and ready to roast. For another weekend meal, you might get around to that salmon feast you have been meaning to have all summer. The good run that we have been boasting about is almost over so now's the time to buy some, while the price is still a nice low 35 cents a pound.

On Sunday, have a Scottish "bap" for breakfast. It's actually just a large morning roll, but it's a specialty of the bakery where I shopped. They sell for 30 cents a dozen.

I can't resist enticing you to forget the calorie count. So why not try Swiss or Brussels tarts at your weekend tea breaks? Swiss tarts have almond-flavored cake mixture filling in pastry shell and are topped with dollop of whipped cream.

Brussels tarts have walnut filling with thin skin of cream icing. Both kinds are four for 25 cents or 75 cents a dozen.

Call Penny at 382-3131 if you wish to know where I shopped.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Why Grow Old? Here Are Questions and Answers

Q. "I have a problem I wish you would answer in the paper. My hands are covered with brown spots. I don't work outside. In fact I don't do any kind of work in the sun. I would like so much to get rid of these."

A. The sun is only a contributing factor. These can be removed by a skin specialist.

Q. "Please answer this at your convenience. I have a girl friend who drives me crazy in regard to my makeup. I am 50 years old and have been wearing liquid makeup for several years now. I think a shiny look gives a woman a more youthful look. My friend says I am wrong and that as we get older, powder is more youthful."

A. I will give you a sort of middle-of-the-road answer. It depends somewhat on the type of liquid makeup you use. Some of them really take the place of powder. However, most look best with a light coating of powder. I do not think that an older woman looks any younger with a shiny look but I know what you mean. Makeup which is too heavy is aging. Also, a woman should take care that powder does not settle in wrinkles. As a general rule I think that liquid makeup and light powdering are best.

Q. "Because of an allergy to practically everything, my face swells on either side and itches. I can control this during the daytime but at night I claw myself to pieces in my sleep. Consequently I have swelling and disfiguring blotches on each side of my face. When I look at myself in the mirror I could lie down and howl. I was noted for my lovely complexion and was voted the prettiest girl in my class when I was graduated from college. Now I shudder at my reflection. What's the answer? I would like to go swimming but my makeup washes off."

A. I assume that you have been to an allergist and are not diagnosing yourself. If you haven't seen one, then see your family physician and if he feels that an allergist is needed he will recommend one. I am certain that there must be some medical help for you. As to makeup, there are splendid waterproof makeups which will hide the blotches and remain on while you swim.

Q. "I am 22 and the mother of two children. My weight has always been normal except during my pregnancies. My problem is that this last year I have started getting varicose veins and they are getting worse all the time. What causes them and is there a way to get rid of them?"

A. These are usually inherited, but clothing which is too tight, and standing for long periods, day after day, can also play a part in developing this condition. It is most important to have early treatment. Often the process can be slowed down. Injections are sometimes used and the veins can be removed with surgery. Elastic stockings are helpful, but most important, see a specialist for early treatment. Your family physician can give you the name of a competent one.

If any of our readers would like to know the names of some waterproof makeups, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Betty Poulsen Wed at View Royal

All Saint's Anglican Church at View Royal was the setting recently when Betty Rose Poulsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Poulsen, 4254 Prospect Lake Road, exchanged vows and rings with Thomas Russell River Rickinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rickinson, 288 Stewart Avenue. Archdeacon J. W. Forth officiated.

Standard baskets of white gladioli, pale yellow carnations and sword ferns decorated the church for the occasion. White carnations and gypsophila were at the altar.

During signing of the register Mrs. Norma Wragg played "Ave Maria."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of draped nylon sheer over a short belted skirt of white peau de soie. Scoop neckline and overskirt were both enhanced by lace appliques embroidered with seed pearls. Sleeves ended in lily points.

HEIRLOOM BLOSSOMS

A crown of orange blossoms, seed pearls and crystal held a bouffant four-tier lace-trimmed veil. Sprig of orange blossom which groom's mother had worn at her wedding was arranged in the bride's crown as "something old." She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses, white feathered carnations and ivy. Maid of honor, Miss Judy Carr was gowned in yellow taffeta covered with smocked white organza. Her headpiece was a yellow pillbox topped with self fabric roses. Bridesmaids, all sisters of the principals, were Miss Shirley Poulsen and twins, the Misses Raynette and Colleen Rickinson. They wore gowns of apple green shot silk organza over taffeta and carried bouquets of Talisman threated yellow gladioli and ivy.

Flower girl, Miss Lori Henson wore a dainty yellow ruffled organza frock and carried a basket of the same flowers as senior attendants. Jeff Hett was best man while John and Bob Henson and Bill Boden ushered guests.

Hear Vows

Many guests came from Port Alberni to attend the recent wedding of Miss Betty Rose Poulsen and Mr. Thomas Rickinson. They were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore with Elaine and Bob, Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Davies and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davies. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Mazzerolle and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moore, all of Vedder Crossing, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Henson and Mrs. G. A. Slaughter, all of Nanaimo; Mrs. J. Baker, Wellington and Mrs. A. H. Johnston, Vancouver.

Three young students from University of British Columbia discovered this summer that old books and files in provincial archives are

Past Comes Alive for Young Trio

By MARGE GILROY

Three university students who have been buried behind books and files in the provincial archives all summer are now getting ready to pack up and return to Vancouver.

Miss Jacqueline (Toni) Burt of Vancouver and Earl McDonald of Trinidad, both second-year medical students at University of British Columbia, have been here since the first of June preparing biographies on pioneer physicians in British Columbia.

Not only have they been doing research on pioneers but they are pioneers themselves.

They are the first students in the university to be granted a fellowship for historical research by the Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Woodward Foundation.

It's the Woodward Foundation that will finance construction of a bio-medical library in the new health science centre at UBC and there's a tie-up between this fact and the work the two medical students have been doing in the archives.

A portrait of the late Charles Woodward, M.L.A. father of P. A. Woodward, will hang in the historic section of the new medical library. On either side will be two plaques, each containing 20 names of pioneer physicians who were prominent in the province before 1914.

In conjunction with the plaques there will be a booklet containing a biography of each physician. Material for this booklet is precisely what the two medical students have been gathering during the summer.

They have compiled information on the lives of 130 physicians. From these biographies 80 names will be selected by a committee and placed on the plaques.

Dr. W. C. Gibson, head of the history department of the medical faculty at UBC, prepared the list to be researched and he will also head the committee when it comes time to make the selection.

Among Victoria names most likely to be included in the booklet are Dr. J. S. Helmcken, Dr. J. C. Davie, Dr. W. F. Tolmie, Dr. O. M. Jones and Dr. Henry Esson Young.

Finding the material for the biographies has meant searching through old "Who's Who," medical biographical dictionaries, newspaper clippings and many more dusty files.

"For a few of the biographies we were able to visit the physician himself and gather some first hand information," said Miss Burt, in a tone which sounded as though it had been a welcome opportunity to have a few hours away from the yellowed pages in the archives.

Her co-research partner, Mr. McDonald was more delighted in reading early medical cures that were advertised in the old newspapers.

INTEREST HELD "I also enjoyed reading some of the diaries," said Mr. McDonald, "they were not only interesting as far the physician's life was concerned but they also described in some detail the social conditions of the time."

What has impressed these two medical students most is the outstanding contribution made by many of the pioneer physicians.

"I think it is wonderful the way they served the community," commented Miss Burt, "but I don't suppose they had much choice, they were often the only professional people in the area and they were more than likely forced to accept public office."

Some of the physicians came west under contract to the Canadian Pacific Railway. Others came as missionaries and teachers, but nearly all of them played an active role in the development of the province, many as members of the legislature.

"One more thing, I have noticed about these early physicians," said Miss Burt, "and that is that many of them were gold medalists in their class."

Then as she thumbed through a pile of neatly typed biographies she added: "It really has been an interesting summer and everyone has been so helpful. Just as we would think we had exhausted all the source material Miss Inez Mitchell or Willard Ireland would come along with new suggestions."

ANTHROPOLOGIST Third member of this trio, Miss Naim Calvert, a fourth-year anthropology student has been working for Dr. R. W. Dunning, associate professor in the anthropology department at UBC.

Her task, to search for material which dealt with the early relationships between whites and Indians in the Fraser Valley has been even harder than her two fellow students. All official records concerning Indians have been filed in Ottawa since this province joined Confederation.

However, she has gathered some information from missionary reports and other similar accounts which have enabled her to reach some conclusions to take back to UBC next month.

When this trio returns to campus their professors will have no reason to be skeptical of how hard they worked. Voluminous files of research will be proof of their arduous labors.

Mayne-Pinniger Wedding

A double-ring ceremony held recently in Metropolitan United Church, with Rev. F. E. H. James officiating, united in marriage Brenda Florence Mayne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Mayne and Jeffrey Scott Pinniger, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Pinniger, all of Victoria.

The bride wore a short-length pink chiffon and lace dress with crystal tiara holding her shoulder-length veil. Pink roses and white heather were in her bouquet. She was given in marriage by her father.

A twin sister, Sharon, was the bridesmaid. She chose a gown of pale green silk organza over floral taffeta, with a pale green whimsie and short veil, and she carried a pale green and white gladioli bouquet.

The best man was Jay Wilson. A reception was held in the Club Tango, where R. Harlow proposed the toast to his niece's happiness. The bride's going away outfit was a yellow plaid suit. Her accessories were white and her corsage of pink rosebuds. The young couple will make their home in Victoria.

Stage, Screen Stars Spearhead Civil Rights Rally

GADSDEN, Ala. (UPI)—Actors Marion Brando, Paul Newman, Anthony Franciosa and William Frye moved centre stage Thursday night in the real-life drama of the struggle for civil rights.

The four stage and screen stars told a tumultuous rally of more than 1,000 wildly cheering Negroes that the civil rights movement is a wave that will sweep the nation.

The four came here to bolster a desegregation drive in this racial hot spot in northeast Alabama. They spoke in the sanctuary of the Union Methodist Church to a crowd which overflowed into the streets.

The actors promised to meet with city councilmen and officials of Republic Steel and Goodyear Tire—two of the town's largest employers—to present Negro grievances.

"If that fails, we'll try again," Brando told the gathering.

Asked if the four would lead demonstrations, Newman said, "We'll know a little later. Everything is sort of in limbo right now."

Asked if he were willing to go to jail, Newman said, "Yes, but I wouldn't like it."

Summer-long demonstrations against rigid racial customs here have resulted in more than 1,000 arrests.

Brando said the Negro community had postponed demonstrations to give the four actors time to "establish communications with the prominent citizens of the community and city officials."

"Every effort will be made to sit down and try to produce an atmosphere for negotiations," Brando said. "We are unaffiliated, interested citizens offering our services—whatever they might be."

Newman described the group's purpose as to try to set up "a line of communications between the Negro community and the white community."

The rally ended with the actors holding hands with church leaders and joining in singing "We Shall Overcome" and "We Are Not Afraid."

Frye was the first to speak and his talk was the shortest.

"I am deeply moved," he said. Then he turned and took his place along with the other three actors in high backed chairs on each side of the pulpit.

Franciosa, dressed in black coat and gray pants, said "regardless of the great struggle we are going through, the greatest thing I see there is joy."

Newman, dressed in a light blue coat and grey trousers and sporting a light beard, said, "This means something to me—very touching, very moving. I hope it means something to you too."

Brando, dressed in a dark suit, was the last to speak.

"As soon as I walked into this room I saw something indescribable. Something very moving, something that could not be muted. It is that civil rights is going to win. You people know a lot more about civil rights than we do because you haven't had them.

Pearson 'Headliner' at CNE

TORONTO (UPI) — Canada's second largest city Thursday welcomed Lester B. Pearson as a native son and promptly billed him a one-night headliner at the Canadian National Exhibition. The former University of Toronto history professor who rode through Canada's foreign service to become prime minister, Mr. Pearson received a warm greeting from Toronto's city council and Mayor Donald Summerville and religious, political and military representatives.

EVENING PERFORMANCE
Following a formal council meeting and reception at city hall, Mr. Pearson and his wife

Marjory went on to be wined and dined at the CNE and attend an evening grandstand performance.

Toronto council president Philip Gibens drew the prime minister's attention to the fact that as a boy "his biggest treat of the summer was to get a nickel or a dime to go to the exhibition." He warned Mr. Pearson that the city would let him try to stretch the same amount at the CNE this time. Mr. Gibens also said Mr. Pearson would receive top billing with former Canadian entertainer, Robert Goulet, who has migrated to the U.S.

Mr. Pearson threw back his head and roared as Mr. Gibens said: "Pearson, Goulet and the Mounties—what could be more Canadian than that? And the names even sound bi-cultural."

ERIC JOHNSON
... fatal stroke

'Movie Czar' Advised Presidents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eric A. Johnson, president of the Motion Picture Association and an aide to three United States presidents, died Thursday from the effects of cerebral thrombosis. He was 66.

Johnson, who administered the American movie industry's moral code of self-censorship for 18 years, had entered George Washington University Hospital on June 17 after he suffered a stroke. A hospital spokesman said the famed "movie czar" died at 6:10 p.m. there.

Memorial services will be held Monday at St. John's Episcopal Church, Washington, with burial in Spokane, Wash. Although born in the nation's capital, Johnson grew up and was the successful head of several businesses in Spokane, where he moved with his family as a youngster.

He served former Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman in various domestic assignments and once went to the Middle East as a special ambassador for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

HEADED CHAMBER
He was a former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and served an unprecedented four terms as its leader.

Johnson, proud of his self-made success in business, was once called "the public relations man for American capitalism."

Born the son of a druggist, December 21, 1896, he began working at six, selling newspapers. While at the University of Washington he acted as a correspondent for a local newspaper and worked as a longshoreman.

Although graduated from the university in 1917 with a law degree, he never practiced. From law school Johnson entered the Marine Corps and served with the legion guard at Peking, China, during the First World War. When discharged, he was thought to be the youngest captain in the corps.

Returning to Spokane, he launched his business career by buying into an unsuccessful vacuum cleaner company. In 10 years the Brown-Johnson Co. had prospered to the extent that he was able to organize the Columbia Electric & Manufacturing Co., now one of the largest of its kind in the Northwest.

Johnson was elected president of the Motion Picture Association of America in 1945, succeeding the late Will Hays. His original five-year contract, calling for a salary of $125,000 plus expenses, was renewed several times.

NEW AIRPORT TERMINAL AT VANCOUVER BY '67

OTTAWA (CP)—It will be 1967 before Vancouver gets its new airport terminal building.

The transport department said Thursday the reason for the delay is the slow settling of soil in the area. Fill dumped in the terminal area a year ago still is settling at the rate of 1½ inches a month.

This settling likely will continue until 1965, the department said. It noted that soil under the end of a runway built in 1961 has only now stopped sinking.

Then the department will allow a safe period before work begins on the terminal. Meanwhile Vancouver consultants have been asked to finish working drawings within a year. Tenders would be called in late 1964.

... BOMBSHELL ELECTION

The next step, he declared, is an agreement on sale of the downstream benefits to the U.S.
"Before any of that discussion, I want to know the people of B.C. are behind the government," because this agreement will last for many years," he said.

It is clear he intends to use an election victory to drive a bargain in his favor in the negotiations.

But on the B.C. Electric issue, Mr. Bennett was less informative.

He switched to the subject of federal-provincial relations, which he said would also be a major Social Credit election issue.

"The government is also asking a new mandate at this time to act for B.C. in the forthcoming federal-provincial conference at which the vital matters of a national health program, portable pensions and increased old age security and tax sharing arrangements will be discussed," Mr. Bennett said.

MOST IMPORTANT

He said it would be the most important conference since Confederation.

Mr. Bennett denied he had completely ruled out an election this year.

"I said I didn't think there would be an election this year," he maintained.

"What has brought this partly to a head is the danger to Confederation."

Asked to spell out the dangers, Mr. Bennett said it was not a question of disagreement among the provinces, but of relations with the federal government.

He said the recent premiers' conference at Halifax "really brought it home."

He referred to "demands the constitution be changed and the British North America Act

Saigon Quiet With Army In Control

SAIGON (AP) — South Viet Nam's capital was alive with rumors of general strikes. Buddhist suicides and street fights today, but conditions appeared quiet with the army in complete control.

Armored cars and tracked vehicles flanked the highway as U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, arriving to take up his post, was driven into the city Thursday night.

He was expected to pay his first call on President Ngo Dinh Diem today and convey to him the U.S. government's angry disapproval of the crackdown this week on Buddhist opponents of Diem's regime.

Opposition to the anti-Buddhist action mounted in Diem's official family. Foreign Minister Vu-Van Mau was reliably reported to have resigned in protest, shaved his head in the fashion of a Buddhist monk and asked Diem's permission to make a religious pilgrimage to India. He was the third Vietnamese diplomat to resign in protest against the crackdown.

An American official said he believed the crackdown, which started with a series of bloody raids on temple pagodas early Wednesday, was instigated by Vietnamese generals. He said: "On Sunday, when a mob of demonstrators in Da Nang beat up an army officer, took his weapon and burned his jeep, a lot of officers felt the army had lost face. I think that's one of the reasons for martial law now."

Mr. Bennett said that Social Credit's record of achievement "can be seen throughout the province."

GRANT EXTENSION

It will also deal, he said, with "extension of the homeowner grant" although he did not say if this meant additional increases to those already planned in 1964 and 1965 to $100.

Social Credit has held power in B.C. since August, 1952, when it rode in on a protest against the Liberal-Conservative coalition.

Mr. Bennett said that Social Credit's record of achievement "can be seen throughout the province."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Paul Kibride, age 12, of Salix, Ia., for his question:

What is a sloth?

A slothful person is too lazy to whisk through the day's duties and too careless to tend to details, such as neatness. The human falling of slothfulness is named after the sloth, the world's slowest mammal. It is not quite fair to call him slothful, because, being an animal, he is not guilty of human failings. He moves in the slowest motion because this happens to be his way of life. He is classed with the "ant-eaters in the order Edentata, meaning the toothless animals. But the sloth has a few peg-like teeth, though they are rootless and without enamel. The ant-bear, the armadillo and other edentates hunt for ants, but the slow-slow sloth lacks the ambition for such activity. He dines at a lazy-lazy pace on the cecropia leaves that grow in his native jungles of Central and South America. You might mistake the shaggy fellow for a stubby-tailed bear cub, two feet long. But, unlike a bear, he has a long neck and a small round head with a pair of flat, rounded ears. His eyes are dull and always sleepy, and he wears a dopey expression at all times. You would not expect such a do-nothing character to be very bright. It is no surprise to learn that the sloth, who is the slowest of all the furry mammals, is also rated as one of the most unintelligent mammals. He is so inactive that flocks of moths often live undisturbed in his coarse, untidy hair.

Mossy alga plants often grow in his shaggy coat, and during the rainy seasons the dopey old mossback is tinged with green.

The sloth is just about helpless on the ground, though he swims very well when dropped in the water. He is most at home on the branch of a tree where he hangs by his long claws. His head lolls down at the end of his long neck so that he gets an upside down view of the world. He moves along his branch hand over hand, and people who have watched him say that he moves slower than the minute hand of a watch.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Pat Tripp, age 11, of Blair, Neb., for his question: What caused the Everglades of Florida?

In times past, many of our land areas sank below sea level and became swamped with shallow water. In other places, the floor of the sea rose higher and became dry land. Through the ages, vast areas have been flooded and drained time after time.

The peninsula of Florida is a low strip of land which once belonged to the sea. Ages ago, the peninsula began to rise and for a while was a swampy region of soggy islands and salty lagoons like the Everglades. In time, the water drained from most of the peninsula, leaving dry land. But the Everglades still belong to both the land and the sea.

NEW YORK — Buddy Hackett's going to Budapest to star in a Cinerama movie titled "Millie Goes to Budapest, and Who's Millie?" (I tell you, these simple, short little tales are going to catch on). Buddy, who'll costar with Englishman Lionel Jeffries, will play a murderer whose victim doesn't understand him, or a sex-crazed vicar, he can't remember which. Anyway, he flies to Budapest in a couple of days. "I am going to have people flying Hungary for weekends," he promises. "I am going to do for Budapest what I did for the Catskill Mountains."

Shirley MacLaine keeps laughing off rumors about herself and Robert Mitchum — she's married, so's he; they filmed "Two for the See-Saw," and as the only two in it, they got well acquainted. Now she's going to do "What a Way to Go!" with five male stars — plus Mitchum as No. 6. He's in London with Mrs. Mitchum, where he's filming another one. Shirley's husband, Steve Parker, is with her in Hollywood. We imagine there will be many rumors in this due largely to box office publicity, that will lead to naught. We imagined the same about Liz and Eddie, and Frank and Ava, so don't pay any attention to us.

MARATHON CAR LAUNDRY

Honk As You Pass Washers

How does a person stay up washing cars upwards of five days and nights without falling asleep?

Victorians with any hints will be heard by five youths planning a marathon car wash starting Monday at Suburban Motors Shell station, on behalf of the Order of DeMolay.

The plan was conceived by Richard Sunderland, 17, assisted by 16-year-olds Brian Tyre and Steve Holmes, and Eric Cable, 18. They were joined today by the fifth sport, Pat Horgan, 18.

They have no time limit on the 24-hour-a-day operation, but five days is considered a long time to stay awake, without car washing to boot.

The quintet appeals to motorists to give a friendly honk every time they drive past, just to let the boys know they have support—and to help keep them awake.

They are entertaining the notion of seeking a sponsor who could keep them supplied with food, so they wouldn't have to recruit members of their families.

City Trees Thrive Despite Busy Locations

Victoria's experiment in downtown trees is thriving—thanks in part to the suggestion of a parks employee.

The 40 Pirone ash trees planted along Douglas Street have showed remarkable growth since spring, some of them adding two feet and more to their height despite the grime, fumes and shadows of a downtown environment.

"We really are very pleased with their progress," acting parks administrator Cliff Bate said today.

"They have been especially developed for these conditions of course, but it still is surprising how well they are doing."

Part of their success lies in the solution to an awkward problem—how to cover the earth in which they are planted without cutting off moisture and air circulation.

Alan Smith, boulevard superintendent, came up with an answer that is well on the way towards eliminating the problem.

A mixture of Vermiculite and cement has been poured over a base of gravel as a cover instead of the usual concrete. This is sufficiently porous to allow water and air through while people can walk over it.

It also eliminates the scattering of earth over the sidewalk and the attraction the tree sites first had for smokers as cigarette butt receptacles.

"The only thing that needs remedying now is the damage done to this composition by women's spike heels, but we think we can lick that too by using regular concrete in the heavily travelled corners," said Mr. Bate.

Final test for the experiment will be the winter rains to see if they drain away through the material before freezing and heaving. Mr. Bate said he expected this hurdle to be passed too.

"This is just one example of many instances where our parks workmen have come up with ideas that have either saved the city considerable money or produced greater public convenience," said Mr. Bate.

"Those of us in the administrative end are paid to think but it is really gratifying to find how interested the men actually doing the work also are."

"I'm really pleased because it shows they are thinking all the time. We've had many ideas come up from the men and in some cases they've been a product of several minds working on a problem."

Seat Belts Now General For Detroit's '64 Cars

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry made a major concession to the average motorist Thursday but the car owner will pay the bill.

General Motors, followed in quick succession by Chrysler, Ford and American Motors, announced that effective Jan. 1, 1964, all their new cars will be equipped with seat belts. Studebaker started the trend with a similar announcement last March 1.

The industry had been under growing pressure since the 1950s when Nash-Kelvinator's 1950 Rambler series offered seat belts.

Groups interested in traffic safety and in cutting down the death toll in car accidents had urged wider adoption of safety belts.

There were 40,000 deaths in some 10,000,000 United States car accidents last year.

CANADIAN COUNCIL HAPPY
In Ottawa, Paul Gormley, director of public relations for the Canadian Highway Safety Council, said the council is "very happy" with the move.

In 1962 there were 3,888 traffic deaths in Canada. Mr. Gormley said seat belts would reduce the number of deaths by 30 per cent.

Starting with 1962 models, built-in anchorages for seat belts were provided by all U.S. manufacturers in order that dealers could make seat belt installations quickly and cheaply. The auto firms said list prices of their cars will be adjusted to reflect the inclusion of front seat belts as standard equipment. Cost increases were not announced, but GM said its present cost is $18 or more plus installation.

Chrysler in 1961 announced it would offer seat belts to its dealers on a non-profit basis. It recommended that dealers, as a public service, make seat belts available to car owners on the same basis.

WOMEN JOIN CAMPAIGN
The General Federation of Women's Clubs joined the campaign in 1961. Its crusade resulted in installation of more than 1,000,000 safety belts.

Congress took note of the desire of many motorists for safety belts and at least 14 state legislatures passed bills requiring that seat belts be installed by next January in all new cars sold in their areas.

The auto industry issued many statements through the years expressing its belief in the value of safety belts.

The Automobile Manufacturers Association reported that less than six per cent of autos on the road last year were equipped with safety belts. More than 80 per cent had radios, 57 per cent had automatic transmission.

REINDEER, CARIBOU MEAT BLAMED

Radiation Among Eskimos at Danger Level

WASHINGTON (AP)—Evidence was reported Thursday that Alaskan Eskimos have absorbed radiation doses exceeding at least average permissible limits—from eating reindeer and caribou meat containing unusually high concentrations of bomb-test fallout.

Another report from U.S. Atomic Energy Commission officials said Alaska has experienced "somewhat higher" fallout than any other state—primarily because it's the first region hit by the early fallout from Russian nuclear tests in polar latitudes.

H. M. Parker, manager of the AEC's Hanford laboratories at Richland, Wash., who told of the Eskimo radiation findings, stressed that he did not believe they are in any danger.

But he added, in testifying at fallout hearings being held by the Senate House of Representatives atomic energy committee:

"This is not to say that in the long term it would not be dangerous . . . and if I were a resident there, I'd begin to look around to see how reasonable it would be to substitute some other kind of food for reindeer and caribou."

But Parker said he would not recommend that the Eskimos be removed from the seven villages where the evidence was obtained. It was learned that some Eskimos actually have petitioned the government to move them.

Meanwhile, it was also learned that the Public Health Service and the AEC are planning a much more extensive study of the situation.

The joint study will include an analysis of radioactivity in the air and water in the Alaskan areas where the Eskimos and Indians live—and the caribou roam. It will also embrace intensive studies of the radioactive content of the reindeer and caribou meat—which is used extensively in the native diet.

The Canadian government is carrying out a study of the radioactive content of caribou and other food sources in the far north but it has not been completed.

Historic Talk Via Syncom; Subject—Nigerian Boxer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy and Nigerian Prime Minister Abubakar Tafawa Balewa talked about boxing today in a live telephone conversation via the Syncom 2 communications satellite between the White House and Africa.

The conversation, said to be the first telephone call via satellite between heads of government, turned to boxing and midweight champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria after an exchange of words about the promise of communications via satellite.

Kennedy said he looked forward to Tiger fighting again in the United States, where he won the championship last year from Gene Fulmer. He recently defeated Fulmer again in Nigeria to retain the title.

The President's words were relayed by regular telephone line from his office to Lakehurst, N.J., where they were relayed to the satellite, launched in July. The satellite relayed them to an instrument-packed ship, the Kingsport, anchored in Lagos harbor.

Bombshell B.C. Election Called on Power Question

THESE ARE THE FACES of some of the men on rescue crews who have been working around-the-clock in efforts to reach three men trapped underground near Hazelton, P.A., for more than a week. (AP Wirephotos.)

Escape Shaft Reaches Miners

SHEPPTON, Pa. (UPI)—Drillers today completed a 12-inch escape shaft into the tiny compartment in which two miners have been entombed 11 days.

The steel bit broke through at 3:31 p.m. (12:31 PDT). "It's through," David Fellin, 58, shouted to the men at the surface.

The word was passed quickly to Fellin's wife, Anna, who kept a lonely vigil at the mine site.

It will take up to 30 more hours, however, to widen the shaft to 18 inches to permit Fellin and Henry Thorne, 28, both trapped since Aug. 13, to be brought to the surface in a specially-designed rescue capsule.

At 3:28 p.m. Gordon Smith, state deputy secretary of mines, ordered the slowly-turning drill stopped.

FARRIS GIVEN REMAND ON PERJURY CHARGE

TORONTO (CP)—Ralph K. Farris, president of the Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company, was remanded in magistrate's court today until Sept. 9 on three charges of perjury.

Farris, charged following year-long investigations by the Ontario Securities Commission, said he flew here from Vancouver at his own expense to face the charges.

He was in custody for only 20 minutes before he was released on $10,000 cash bail.

The perjury charges related to evidence Farris gave to inquiries in 1958 and 1962 concerning distribution of the company's shares to elected officials before they were released on the open market.

Jailed Douk Dies of Hunger

AGASSIZ, B.C. (CP)—Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, camped outside Mountain Prison here, today shouted "murderers" and "butchers" when they learned that a jailed member of their sect had died during a hunger strike.

The Doukhobors first learned by radio of the death of Paul E. Podmoroff, 23, who had been serving a seven-year term for arson.

Two other Sons of Freedom, their names withheld, were reported in the same hospital at nearby Chilliwack where Podmoroff died.

Assistant Warden G. S. Merritt of the B.C. penitentiary, which administers the special Doukhobor prison here, said Podmoroff died of malnutrition and that an autopsy would be held.

BECAME WEAK

The three Sons were taken to hospital early today and Podmoroff died there about five hours later. Prison doctors had ordered him sent when he became weak and appeared in need of intravenous feeding.

Inside Mountain Prison, more than 100 Freedomite prisoners serving terms for arson and terrorism are still on a hunger strike with many being fed forcibly.

Outside the gates several hundred of the marching Doukhobors are on a hunger strike in sympathy with their jailed brethren.

Meanwhile, the threat of summonses being served on the 500 Doukhobor trekkers camping outside the gate was delayed Thursday by Kent Municipal Council.

Municipal Clerk Lou Davis said that the RCMP Doukhobor Squad had asked the district to delay the summonses for illegal camping and give them some time to try to clear up the problem.

A Kent bylaw prohibits more than five persons camping on one acre of land. The maximum penalty is $500 or six months in jail.

The more than 500 sect members arrived here from Vancouver Tuesday. They originally set out from their Kootenay homes last September, intent on being near relatives serving terms for violence.

THIS WAS Premier Bennett in his office this morning where all talk was "ELECTION." (Photo by Ryan Bros.)

All Parties In High Gear For Campaign

Although even the Social Credit organizations were caught flat-footed by the election shocker, most parties today were in high campaign gear.

All the local MLAs are planning to run again, though some of them were completely in the dark about Premier Bennett's plans.

One definite new prospect in Saanich is John Windsor, the blind author who ran for the New Democratic Party in the federal election.

He said today he is willing to stand if nominated, and a prominent local NDP official promised to nominate him.

The man he'll try to beat, Soledad member John Tisdale, was bowled over by the news.

"Is there a provincial election being called? Where?" he asked.

UNDERSTANDS NOW

Reflecting a moment, he added, "So that's what Premier Bennett meant the other day when he said, 'John, are you ready for the fray?'"

Soledads J. Donald Smith, Waldo Skillings and Works Minister W. N. Chant are all expected to run again in Victoria.

Tippled as a probably Liberal candidate to oppose them is former alderman Mike Griffin. Neither the NDP nor the Conservatives have lined up a slate here yet.

Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane will seek re-election, but there was no word from Reeve George Murdoch on whether he will try again for Social Credit.

Across the province, the NDP boasts 42 of 52 candidates "earmarked."

"This didn't catch us by surprise," said party secretary Ernest Hall.

PLANNING STRATEGY

Party leader Robert Strachan was in Vancouver today for campaign strategy meetings.

Former Vancouver Burrard MP Tom Berger is chairman of the provincial campaign committee, and the first NDP election pamphlet is already printed.

Mr. Hall said campaign offices opened in Salmon Arm complete with posters first thing this morning.

The 16 NDP members of the last legislature will all run again.

The Liberals have no candidates nominated, but all five previous MLAs will run again.

The Conservatives have two candidates nominated, three conventions planned within a week.

Bennett Surprises Everyone

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier W. A. C. Bennett has electrified British Columbia politics by calling a general election Sept. 30.

The issue will be public power development.

The bombshell burst at 4:30 p.m. Thursday. Public and politicians alike had completely relaxed their guard, assuming Social Credit would go its normal four-year term.

Early-year election speculation had died away when Mr. Bennett repeatedly stated there would be no election this year.

The decision was sudden. The reasons offered by the premier were general only.

But the still-unsettled B.C. Electric case, and the fate of the Columbia and Peace River power development are the key ones.

In his election-calling press conference, hurriedly summoned at 4:30 Thursday, the premier said his decision was forced by these factors:

He wants a mandate for his two-river public power policy.

He fears Confederation is in danger.

He has a new seven-year plan for B.C. development.

Minimum Time for Campaign

The election has been called within 39 days, almost the shortest possible time—the statutory limit is 38 days.

Partly because of this there will be no enumeration of voters.

The vote will be barely three years after Social Credit's 1960 victory, a year ahead of the traditional four-year term favored by governments in Canada.

Social Credit goes into the campaign with 31 of the 52 seats in the legislature. The New Democratic Party, as official Opposition, had 16; the Liberals five.

The Conservatives, under new leader Davie Fulton, will try a big comeback after a dead decade.

Mr. Bennett said Social Credit's campaign slogan will be "Forward to a Greater British Columbia."

The NDP has countered with the banner "The Chance of Your Life"—the chance being to unseat the Soledads.

Both Teams Expect Victory

Both party leaders predict victory. Mr. Bennett claiming an increased majority.

Liberal spokesman Alan Macfarlane of Oak Bay said his party could form a government, predicting "substantial gains."

Mr. Fulton, claiming a list of impressive potential candidates, said "It's our chance to get Bennett out."

The five-week campaign is expected to be fierce and tough.

Although the date of the vote came as a shock to everyone, preliminary volleys are already being exchanged.

Mr. Bennett pulled a curtain-raiser just Tuesday when he announced abolition of all tolls by next April 1.

He said Thursday the election had not been discussed by the cabinet until a secret meeting late Wednesday. Dissolution of the 25th legislature after four sessions was proclaimed by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes Thursday.

Nomination day will be Sept. 16, and few candidates are already chosen.

Mr. Strachan said he was ready for the election, but the Liberals were caught with a honeymoon in Hawaii.

The premier, who said he started campaigning the moment he announced the date, gave a broad outline of the election policy Thursday at the press conference.

Details will be spelled out in a manifesto now in preparation, he said.

It will contain new Soledad policy announcements on aid to education and medicare.

Mr. Bennett said the manifesto will contain a "seven year plan" for B.C. development to 1970.

"Keystone of the manifesto will be the Bennett government's two-river program of hydro-electric power development."

COLUMBIA PACT TALKS GO ON AS SCHEDULED

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Columbia River development talks with the U.S. will proceed as scheduled despite B.C. Premier Bennett's calling of a snap provincial election, federal officials said today.

Spokesmen here said it was not anticipated that the planned discussions would reach finality "by any means" before Sept. 30, the date set for the election.

Should the Bennett government of B.C. meet defeat in the election, authorities here suggested, a new review of the whole Columbia scheme likely would be necessary to see what different Columbia policies might be required by the new party in power.

DOUBT NEED FOR ELECTION

Opposition Set For Fall Battle

Opposition party leaders today questioned the necessity for a fall provincial election, but all declared themselves ready for the fray.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan of the New Democratic Party welcomed the vote as a real opportunity to upset Social Credit.

The real issue of the election, he declared, is integrity of government.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault, caught in Hawaii on his honeymoon, promised to return by the first plane. A Liberal party statement by Oak Bay MLA Alan Macfarlane charged the vote is not in the immediate public interest at this time.

"DESPERATION" Conservative leader Davie Fulton, in Penticton on a candidate-raising mission, called it a "desperation" move, but said it was his chance to beat Bennett.

Mr. Strachan said British Columbians should remember the 1960 election and the statements made then by Premier Bennett—that he had repudiated all of them.

He was referring to Social Credit's opposition at the time to taking over the B.C. Electric.

"Premier Bennett should be the last man to speak of public power as an issue," Mr. Strachan said.

He said that in 1960, 62 per cent of the voters opposed Social Credit.

"But because of the diversity of the anti-government vote Social Credit was re-elected."

REMEMBER LESSON "I am appealing to the people of the province to remember the lesson of 1960."

"The NDP is the only party that can possibly defeat Social Credit and I am appealing to these people who would normally support the Liberals or the Conservatives to support the NDP in this election so that a government dedicated to the principles of honesty and forthrightness will be elected."

Mr. Strachan said the issues of the election concern social questions, stability and trustworthiness.

These include medicare, pensions and security.

He went to Vancouver today for a policy meeting with NDP executives. Details of the NDP election platform will be announced afterwards, he said.

RIGHTS JEOPARDIZED Mr. Strachan noted the premier said one of the election issues is the rights of the province in confederation.

"Then the public must recognize that Social Credit, in their handling of the B.C. Electric takeover, have jeopardized provincial rights and confederation more than any government in the history of Canada."

Mr. Perrault said he had no direct comment to make at this time. But he endorsed the statement issued by Mr. Macfarlane on his behalf.

Mr. Macfarlane said he was, like many British Columbians, shocked at the election call.

"I am asking the same question as many others—is a provincial election necessary at this time?"

The Soledads have only spent three of the five years they could have in power, and have a substantial House majority, he said.

"The people of the province have been put to the expense of five elections in seven years—four federal, one provincial. They should not be put to the expense and inconvenience of

GREAT TRAIN ROBBERY

Seventh Suspect Charged

LONDON (Reuters)—A seventh suspect was charged in court today with "being concerned" in Britain's big train robbery as police tightened a net on remaining gang members involved in the world-record train theft.

A man believed involved in the Aug. 8 robbery of a Glasgow-London mail train was being taken by detectives from Leicester, central England, to Aylesbury, nerve-centre of the manhunt.

Scotland Yard said it wanted to interview a 25-year-old silver-smith known as The Weasel in connection with the robbery.

It named the man as Roy Wilson, 31, a "turf accountant" at one of Britain's legalized betting shops, was ordered held in custody until Saturday after being charged at Linsdale court near the scene of the ambush.

Three men and three women already have been charged with complicity or receiving stolen money since police began a massive hunt.

DENIES COMPLICITY

Wilson "strenuously denied" through his lawyer any connection with the robbery.

He smiled as Detective Chief Superintendent Thomas Butler of Scotland Yard quoted him as saying when charged:

"I don't see how you can make it stick without the poppy underworld slang for money and you won't find that."

Wilson was arrested in a suburban house Thursday night and charged with robbing Frank Dewhurst, chief postman aboard the plundered mail train.

More than £2,600,000 ($7,500,000) in British currency—mostly worn banknotes—was taken from the Glasgow-London mail train. About one-tenth of the money has been recovered.

PUBLISH PICTURES

Wilson was picked up after Scotland Yard gave pictures of him and two other men to the press. The other men, Bruce Reynolds, 41, a car and antique dealer, and James White, 43, a cafe owner, had their photographs and descriptions splashed across the front page of almost all London papers today.

No sooner were the pictures issued, than scores of callers flooded Scotland Yard's switchboard, hoping for a cut of the record ($780,000) reward.

CHARGED MONEY FOUND

Twelve teams of detectives in London alone were ordered to swoop on the homes of men known as members of the gang.

Other raids yielded a pile of charred banknotes from a backyard on fire at a south London house.

White and his wife Sherree left their home 10 days ago and later spent some days in a trailer home in which police found £30,000 of the loot.

Already in the dragnet is a tiny white poodle. It was found outside a public house in Essex, whimpering and bruised as though it had been thrown from a passing car. White and his wife had a poodle with them at the trailer camp.

Mary Kashin Manson, 42, appeared in Linsdale court Thursday and charged with receiving £235 of the stolen money Aug. 9—the day after the gang stripped the mail train of 2½ tons of negotiable banknotes.

Tain't surprisin' that Mister Bennett hez come out strong fer Confederation. What else but Ottawa c'd he blame fer his troubles an' raid-fer his dough?

Many a member who called fer an election hoped he wouldn't be heard.

Thet hot line linkin' Washington an' Ottawa will be on'y for person t' Pearson calls.

LISTING UP TO VOTER

It's up to the voters to make sure they can cast ballots in the Sept. 30 election.

Deadline to get on the voters' list is Aug. 31.

There will be no door-to-door enumeration this time. Each electoral district will have a registration centre—in Victoria it is at 910 Gordon Street, and covers the Saanich, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Victoria ridings.

Would-be voters or people who want to check if they are already on the list should contact that office.

To be eligible you must:

Be 19 years old; a Canadian citizen or British subject; resident of Canada for 12 months, resident of B.C. for six months.

The 1960 election list, so far revised only in the case of by-elections or known deaths, contained 874,267 names.

NOBODY BUT NOBODY fools Times cartoonist Bob Bierman, whose trusty crystal ball led him to anticipate Premier Bennett's surprise election call. While politicians and newsmen were caught yawning, Bob was drawing cartoon showing

Bennett erasing toll bridge sign, replacing it with "vote here." Cartoon was drawn more than 24 hours before announcement appeared in Thursday's Times. Bierman, however, refuses to guarantee he'll do it every time.

POLICE HIT BOOKMAKERS

TORONTO (CP) — Police arrested four Toronto men today in a series of raids which they claim smashed an Ontario-wide bookmaking ring that allegedly accepted millions of dollars in bets.

Public Power Major Issue

By FRANK KUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier W. A. C. Bennett has electrified British Columbia politics by calling a general election Sept. 30.

The issue will be public power development.

The bombshell burst at 4:30 p.m. Thursday. Public and politicians alike had completely relaxed their guard, assuming Social Credit would go its normal four-year term.

Early-year election speculation had died away when Mr. Bennett repeatedly stated there would be no election this year.

The decision was sudden. The reasons offered by the premier were general only.

But the still-unsettled B.C. Electric case, and the fate of the Columbia and Peace River power development are the key ones.

In his election-calling press conference, hurriedly summoned at 4:30 Thursday, the premier said his decision was forced by these factors:

He wants a mandate for his two-river public power policy:

He fears Confederation is in danger;

He has a new seven-year plan for B.C. development.

Minimum Time for Campaign

The election has been called within 39 days, almost the shortest possible time—the statutory limit is 38 days.

Partly because of this there will be no enumeration of voters.

The vote will be barely three years after Social Credit's 1960 victory, a year ahead of the traditional four-year term favored by governments in Canada.

Social Credit goes into the campaign with 31 of the 52 seats in the legislature. The New Democratic Party, as official Opposition, had 16; the Liberals five.

The Conservatives, under new leader Davie Fulton, will try a big comeback after a dead decade.

Mr. Bennett said Social Credit's campaign slogan will be "Forward to a Greater British Columbia."

The NDP has countered with the banner "The Chance of Your Life"—the chance being to unseat the Secreds.

Both Teams Expect Victory

Both party leaders predict victory. Mr. Bennett claiming an increased majority.

Liberal spokesman Alan Macfarlane of Oak Bay said his party could form a government, predicting "substantial gains."

Mr. Fulton, claiming a list of impressive potential candidates, said "It's our chance to get Bennett out."

The five-week campaign is expected to be fierce and tough.

Although the date of the vote came as a shock to everyone, preliminary volleys are already being exchanged.

Mr. Bennett pulled a curtain-raiser just Tuesday when he announced abolition of all tolls by next April 1.

He said Thursday the election had not been discussed by the cabinet until a secret meeting late Wednesday. Dissolution of the 25th legislature after four sessions was proposed.

LISTING UP TO VOTER

It's up to the voters to make sure they can cast ballots in the Sept. 30 election. Deadline to get on the voters' list is Aug. 31.

There will be no door-to-door enumeration this time. Each electoral district will have a registration centre—in Victoria it is at 910 Gordon Street, and covers the Saanich, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Victoria ridings.

Would-be voters or people who want to check if they are already on the list should contact that office.

To be eligible you must:

Be 19 years old; a Canadian citizen or British subject; resident of Canada for 12 months, resident of B.C. for six months.

The 1960 election list, so far revised only in the case of by-elections or known deaths, contained 874,267 names.

All Parties In High Gear For Campaign

Although even the Social Credit organizations were caught flat-footed by the election shocker, most parties today were in high campaign gear.

All the local MLAs are planning to run again, though some of them were completely in the dark about Premier Bennett's plans.

One definite new prospect in Saanich is John Windsor, the blind author who ran for the New Democratic Party in the federal election.

He said today he is willing to stand if nominated, and a prominent local NDP official promised to nominate him.

The man he'll try to beat, Secred member John Tisdalle, was bowled over by the news.

"Is there a provincial election being called? Where?" he asked.

'Election? Not This Year'

OTTAWA—On Aug. 5 it was a certainty that the next B.C. provincial election would not be held this year.

Who said so? Mr. W. A. C. Bennett, the premier of B.C., that's who.

He said it to Ed Murphy, representative of New Westminster, B.C., radio station CKNW in the Ottawa press gallery.

The place was Halifax and the event was the conference of provincial premiers, which Mr. Murphy was covering.

Mr. Murphy has a tape recording to prove that Mr. Bennett said it. The tape sounds like this:

Mr. M.: "Do you foresee a provincial election this year?"

Mr. B.: "Certainly not. I said on many occasions, made it very crystal clear that the Social Credit government in British Columbia is not a government that tries to seek party advantage just because we have great policies going. What we seek is to get things done, to get more development, and we see no election in this year and perhaps no election in 1964."

Mr. M.: "This looks like '65'?"

Mr. B.: "Well, '65 would be a better guess than '64."

He disclosed that Columbia Treaty organizations with the U.S. on protocol amendments have been successfully completed.

Hope Fades for Yukon Miner

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—Rescue teams continued their round-the-clock efforts today to find a hard-rock miner buried for three days 900 feet below the surface.

Little hope was held that 23-year-old Desmond Loughran, 23, of Edmonton, would be found alive.

DOUBT NEED FOR ELECTION

Opposition Set For Fall Battle

Opposition party leaders today questioned the necessity for a fall provincial election, but all declared themselves ready for the fray.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan of the New Democratic Party welcomed the vote as a real opportunity to upset Social Credit.

"The real issue of the election, he declared, is integrity of government."

Liberal leader Ray Perrault, caught in Hawaii on his honeymoon, promised to return by the first plane. A Liberal party statement by Oak Bay MLA Alan Macfarlane charged the vote is not in the immediate public interest at this time.

Conservative leader Davie Fulton, in Penticton on a candidate-raising mission, called it a "desperation" move, but said it was his chance to beat Bennett.

Mr. Strachan said British Columbians should remember the 1960 election and the statements made then by Premier Bennett—that he had repudiated all of them.

These include medicare, pensions and security.

Seventh Suspect Charged

LONDON (Reuters)—A seventh suspect was charged in court today with "being concerned" in Britain's big train robbery as police tightened a net on remaining gang members involved in the world-record train theft.

A man believed involved in the Aug. 8 robbery of a Glasgow-London mail train was being taken by detectives from Leicester, central England, to Aylesbury, nerve-centre of the manhunt.

Scotland Yard said it wanted to interview a 28-year-old silversmith known as The Weasel in connection with the robbery.

It named the man as Roy John James and said he was fond of gambling and liked to attend dog tracks.

Charles Frederick Wilson, 31, a "turf accountant" at one of Britain's legalized betting shops, was ordered held in custody until Saturday after being charged at Linsdale court near the scene of the ambush.

Three men and three women already have been charged with complicity or receiving.

Slim Hope Held For Third Man

SHEPPTON, Pa. (UPI)—Drillers today completed a 12-inch escape shaft into the tiny compartment in which two miners have been entombed 11 days.

The steel bit broke through at 3:31 p.m. (12:31 PDT).

"It's through," David Fellin, 38, shouted to the men at the surface.

The word was passed quickly to Fellin's wife, Anna, who kept a lonely vigil at the mine site.

It will take up to 30 more hours, however, to widen the shaft to 18 inches to permit Fellin and Henry Throne, 28, both trapped since Aug. 13, to be brought to the surface in a specially-designed rescue capsule.

At 3:28 p.m. Gordon Smith, state deputy secretary of mines, ordered the slowly-turning drill stopped.

"Hold it—stop the drill, stop it," he shouted to the drilling crew.

There was a moment of silence as the drill cut through to the survival chamber by its own weight.

The bit was pulled a few feet back up the shaft.

Fellin told the surface: "I could see the drill before you lifted it up."

A second drilling rig, considerably smaller, was sending a four-inch probe toward the area where Louis Bova, 42, is believed trapped. It was much slower, however, than the giant rig.

About 25 feet of debris separate Throne and Fellin from Bova. Bova's fate was uncertain. There have been no reports about him since Tuesday night, when Throne and Fellin said they heard brief shouts and tapping. A navy survival expert at the scene said Bova's survival chances appeared slim.

Outside the gates several hundred of the marching Doukhobors are on a hunger strike in sympathy with their jailed brethren.

Meanwhile, the threat of summonses being served on the 500 Doukhobor trekkers camping outside the gate was delayed Thursday by Kent Municipal Council.

Municipal Clerk Lou Davis said that the RCMP Doukhobor Squad had asked the district to delay the summonses for illegal camping and give them some time to try to clear up the problem.

A Kent bylaw prohibits more than five persons camping on one acre of land. The maximum penalty is $500 or six months in jail.

Witnesses said the shouting, gesticulating Sons of Freedom were quieted by Mrs. Florence (Big Fanny) Storgoff, one of their spokesmen.

Assistant Warden G. S. Merritt of the B.C. penitentiary, which administers the special Doukhobor prison here, said Podmoroff died of malnutrition and that an autopsy would be held.

The three Sons were taken to hospital early today and Podmoroff died there about five hours later. Prison doctors had ordered him sent when he became weak and appeared in need of intravenous feeding.

Inside Mountain Prison, more than 100 Freedomite prisoners serving terms for arson and terrorism are still on a hunger strike with many being fed forcibly.

Election Call: Prime Blunder Or Master Act

By FRANK BUTTER

Has W.A.C. pulled a boner that will cost him his job—or is he cashing in on a good thing while it lasts? Premier Bennett has sailed into an election with the province's two biggest problems unresolved: the B.C. Electric case and the Columbia River Treaty.

On these two issues his government could stand or fall.

The immediate question, then, is: Why was the election called before they were settled?

Is it because there is a danger of political failure in both? Although the premier advanced a number of quite different reasons for his September election, all of them in generalities, there is more than lurking suspicion that these two are the true nub of his decision.

There are several other very important factors, which he also did not mention, that must have been in his consideration.

They include: a prosperous boom which has given the government millions of dollars to throw out on potential vote-getting developments; the possibility that the opposition parties are caught dozing and short of funds; the indicator supplied by the success, for the government, in the July 15 Columbia byelection.

The premier avoided questions about B.C. Electric at his election-calling press conference on Thursday.

And yet just the day before he said that negotiations with B.C. Power Corp. on a new price for the company were at "a very interesting stage."

In fact there is good reason that he believed that he was about to reach a settlement.

A top secret offer was made to the corporation at the beginning of the week.

The government, it is reported, was willing to pay about $25,000,000 more than the original takeover price.

This would comprise extra $20,000,000 recommended by Chief Justice Sherwood Lett in his judgment against the government, plus interest for the two years of "illegal" public ownership.

Decision Will Work Both Ways

The offer may not have been rejected yet, but if Mr. Bennett now feels it will be, he can make an big issue of it during the election campaign.

If it is later accepted, then he will have a last-minute plum to pull out of the pie.

Mr. Bennett also declared that he wants a mandate from the voters to go ahead with his plan for the Columbia.

He obviously wants a strong bargaining tool to convince the Americans to meet his price for the downstream benefits.

The fact that Mr. Bennett now says there will be no final Columbia negotiations until after the election plus the apparent failure to settle the B.C. Electric case, might also indicate a premonition on the premier's part that many more difficulties lie ahead.

In that case, he may have reasoned it best to get an election out of the way before the danger of failure. This would also enable him to make the fullest political use of his financial prosperity. He has enough money to lift all tolls, to promise extra cash for universities and schools, highways, hospitals, and even a hint about a medicare policy.

The Social Credit victory in Columbia was, the premier admitted Thursday, a factor.

And the byelection result gave him further warning that the longer he delayed a general election the more chance for Davie Fulton to gain momentum in what could be a Conservative revival.

Mr. Fulton hailed his Columbia candidate's second-place finish as the start of a new trend.

Calling the election this year might head it off.

So the premier is gambling his physical assets and provincial prosperity against possible liabilities on the Columbia and B.C. Electric and the strength of the opposition parties.

If everything goes right for him, he could sail home as he predicts, with more seats.

If he has underestimated his foe, the election could backfire.

BATTLE IN KAMLOOPS ELECTION HIGHLIGHT

The battle of the election will be at Kamloops. It will be a contest of two of the biggest personalities in B.C. politics — Conservative leader Davie Fulton and Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi.

Mr. Gagliardi has held the seat since 1952. Mr. Fulton was the federal member for Kamloops from 1945 until his resignation this year to enter provincial politics.

When Kamloops voted provincially it was heavy for Gagliardi. In the last election, he polled 4,777 votes, almost half the total cast, and nearly 2,000 ahead of his nearest rival, the New Democratic Party candidate.

The federal riding, considerably larger than the B.C. constituency, was equally strong for Fulton.

In 1962, his last election, he got 11,312 votes, nearly 6,000 ahead of the Liberal runner-up.

How will the voters choose between local pastor Gagliardi and local lawyer Fulton?

... OPPOSITION

He went to Vancouver today for a policy meeting with NDP executives. Details of the NDP election platform will be announced afterwards, he said.

Mr. Strachan noted the premier said one of the election issues is the rights of the province in confederation.

"Then the public must recognize that Social Credit, in their handling of the B.C. Electric takeover, have jeopardized provincial rights and confederation more than any government in the history of Canada."

Mr. Perrault said he had no direct comment to make at this time. But he endorsed the statement issued by Mr. Macfarlane on his behalf.

Mr. Macfarlane said he was, like many British Columbians, shocked at the election call.

"I am asking the same question as many others—is a provincial election necessary at this time?"

The Socreds have only spent three of the five years they could have in power, and have a substantial House majority, he said.

"The people of the province have been put to the expense of five elections in seven years four federal, one provincial. They should not be put to the expense and inconvenience of another one unless extraordinary circumstances exist. This I believe is not the case."

He said the most important issue—settlement of the B.C. Electric case is unsolved. An election would not settle it. The premier, he said, cannot ask for a mandate on his power policy until he puts all the facts before the public.

"The public interest would have been better served if we had gone on with the business of the province without the interruption of an election."

Mr. Fulton said the election is being called early because Mr. Bennett feared his policies may be exposed before he had a chance to get re-elected.

He said as far as he is concerned the prime issue will be the B.C. Electric.

"I have said that Bennett's clear duty is to settle the B.C. Electric mess and to work out a sensible public power policy. We must try to restore the damage he has done to the credit and reputation of the province."

Mr. Fulton, like Mr. Strachan, declared that the voters must restore trust and integrity in government.

IT WAS A SHORT VACATION for chief electoral officer Fred Hurley who rushed back to his office gasping. (Ryan Bros. photo.)

HIS VACATION WAS CUT SHORT

The key man in the provincial election didn't know a thing about it when he spent through the Okanagan on a holiday Thursday.

Fred Hurley, as B.C.'s chief electoral officer the man who organizes the voting, was given no advance warning, nor was he officially notified when Premier Bennett announced the Sept. 30 date.

He started a month's holiday three days ago and heard the news on his car radio at Peachland late Thursday.

He left the car with his wife and sat up all night on a bus to Vancouver.

Mr. Hurley, travel-stained and weary, arrived in his office at 9:30 today.

RIGHT TO WORK

He immediately sat down to tackle all the mechanical arrangements that have to be made to prepare for the election — appointing returning officers, arranging polls, printing ballots, drawing up voters' lists.

It's the 13th election in which Mr. Hurley has participated — more than any politician campaigning today.

He began his career in the provincial electoral office as an office boy in 1919.

Victory for Socred Government Will Give Bennett New Record

Apart from the political aspirations for the Social Credit party, Premier Bennett's call for a general election has a personal side.

If he wins the contest he will be assured of holding the premiership of B.C. for the longest period of anyone in the province's history.

Legally Mr. Bennett could have continued his present term until mid 1965, which would enable him to surpass the 13-year record established shortly after the turn of the century by Sir Richard McBride.

But Canadian experience is that a government which goes the full five-year term takes a grave risk of defeat, since the public gets the idea it is hanging on to office merely for the sake of drawing salaries.

Mr. Bennett is too astute a politician to take such a gamble, even though he has drifted out the suggestion once or twice lately.

Mr. Bennett completed 11 years as premier on Aug. 1. If he wins another term he will then be sure of at least 15 years in the office.

The poll will also establish a new record for frequency of elections in B.C. history—five general contests in 11 years.

Partly this comes about because Mr. Bennett went into

Social Credit Out In Front With 31 Seats

Social Credit went into the new election campaign today with a hold on 31 of the 52 seats in the provincial legislature.

In the last election, Sept. 12, 1960, the Socreds won 32, New Democrats 16, Liberals four.

In subsequent byelections the government lost one seat in Vancouver-Point Grey to the Liberals.

Social Credit held 38.8 per cent of the popular vote, the NDP 32.6 per cent, Liberals 20.9 and Conservatives 6.7 per cent.

The Socreds would have to lose six seats to be voted out of majority rule.

In 1960 Socreds won three ridings by less than 60 votes, the three closest contests in the election.

In Comox, Dan Campbell's lead was only 28; in Yale, and in Nanaimo, Recreation Irvine Corbett won by 29 Minister Earle Westwood was just in by 51 votes.

In seven other close contests, won by less than 365 votes, Socreds won four—Skeena, Salmon Arm, Prince Rupert and Lillooet—and lost three, Fernie, Grand Forks and Atlin.

Social Credit's strongest areas have been the North and Interior. The NDP gets most of its strength in the Greater Vancouver area.

This will be the fifth election in 11 years for B.C.

Social Credit won the previous four.

There have been three byelections since 1960.

At Revelstoke, the NDP retained its seat in September, 1962; at Point Grey the government suffered a tremendous defeat at the hands of Liberal Pat McGeer last December, and in Columbia, July 15 this year.

Social Credit held its former seat.

New Rift in Socred Ranks

By The Canadian Press

A new rift appears to be developing between Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson and Quebec Social Crediters.

In Ottawa, Jean-Baptiste Cote of Granby, Que., chief organizer for the Quebec wing of the party, issued a press statement saying that several Quebec party groups want Mr. Thompson to step down as national leader.

And in Rouyn, Que., Real Caouette, deputy leader of the party, accused Mr. Thompson of contradicting himself when he criticized six Quebec Social Credit MPs for declaring themselves in support of the Liberal minority government after the April 8 election. The six MPs later repudiated their declaration.

Mr. Thompson said today in an Ottawa interview that he did not think the situation worthy of direct comment at this stage. But he noted that "it is quite in contrast to the vote of confidence which I received at the national council meeting of the party here last month."

Told it was B.C., he scoffed "you're kidding."

UNDERSTANDS NOW

Reflecting a moment, he added, "So that's what Premier Bennett meant the other day when he said, 'John, are you ready for the fray?'"

Secrets J. Donald Smith, Waldo Skillings and Works Minister W. N. Chant are all expected to run again in Victoria.

Tipped as a probable Liberal candidate to oppose them is former alderman Mike Griffin.

Neither the NDP nor the Conservatives have lined up a slate here yet.

Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane will seek re-election, but there was no word from Reeve George Murdoch on whether he will try again for Social Credit.

Across the province, the NDP boasts 42 of 52 candidates "earmarked."

"This didn't catch us by surprise," said party secretary Ernest Hall.

stolen money since police began a massive hunt.

Wilson "strenuously denied" through his lawyer any connection with the robbery.

He smiled as Detective Chief Superintendent Thomas Butler of Scotland Yard quoted him as saying when charged:

"I don't see how you can make it stick without the poppy (underworld slang for money) and you won't find that."

Wilson was arrested in a suburban house Thursday night and charged with robbing Frank Dewhurst, chief postman aboard the plundered mail train.

More than £2,600,000 ($7,800,000) in British currency—mostly worn banknotes—was taken from the Glasgow-London mail train. About one-tenth of the money has been recovered.

PUBLISH PICTURES

Wilson was picked up after Scotland Yard gave pictures of him and two other men to the press. The other men, Bruce Reynolds, 41, a car and antique dealer, and James White, 43, a cafe owner, had their photographs and descriptions splashed across the front page of almost all London papers today.

No sooner were the pictures issued, than scores of callers flooded Scotland Yard's switchboard, hoping for a cut of the record ($780,000) reward.

Twelve teams of detectives in London alone were ordered to swoop on the homes of men known as members of the gang. Other raids yielded a pile of charred banknotes from a backyard on fire at a south London house.

White and his wife Sherree left their home 10 days ago and later spent some days in a trailer home in which police found £30,000 of the loot.
